Santa Clara Battle Rages

Cuban Rebels Carry War Of Sabotage Near Havana

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebels carried their war of sabotage to the Havana area today as an explosive accompaniment to the battle of Santa Clara in central Cuba.

A heavy blast rocked the town of Guanabacoa, across Havana Bay, just before dawn and awakened thousands of people in this capital, 10 miles away.

This was reported to have resulted from firing of a Cuban arms company warehouse, exploding stores of dynamite. There were rumors that seven soldiers on guard duty there died in the explosion.

Two smaller blasts were reported in the southern part of Havana. Rebel sympathizers here say they have 5,000 armed partisans within the city. They declared there would be startling developments soon in Havana regardless of the outcome of rebel leader Fidel Castro's battle to seize Santa Clara and cut Cuba in two.

Pierce house-to-house fighting apparently persisted today in that capital of central Las Villas province.

Informed sources said casualties were heavy on both sides.

One private informant estimated nearly 1,000 men had been killed or wounded.

The government used bombers, tanks, armored cars and artillery to support troops fighting from house to house against outnumbered infantrymen of rebel leader Fidel Castro. Government sources claimed rebels were being dislodged from key positions.

Thousands of civilians fled Santa Clara, capital of the rich central farming province of Las Villas. The city of 150,000 persons is 160 miles east of Havana.

The rebels claimed control of several other towns in the heart of Las Villas province and much of the countryside. Government sources denied loss of the towns.

If the rebels win Las Villas, government forces fighting rebels farther east would be cut off by land from Havana. Such a rebel victory might also touch off further uprising against Batista. It also would cut the government off from its main source of income, the sugar cane crop scheduled for harvesting soon in eastern Cuba.

The main rebel forces continued trying to capture Santiago, capital of easternmost Oriente province and one of the few government strongpoints left in Oriente. Camaguey province, between Oriente and Las Villas, has been the scene of scattered rebel raids.

The rebels and their forces were in position to attack Santiago itself after taking 14 towns in Oriente. The port city, Cuba's second largest, is defended by 10,000 to 12,000 troops. Castro is believed trying to make it his capital and proclaim a provisional government headed by Dr. Manuel Urrutia, who as a judge once freed the rebel leader.

Government officials remained confident of beating Castro in any showdown battle.

In New Orleans, Delta Air Lines said armed Cuban police dragged two protesting American citizens from a plane that stopped in Havana Monday on a flight from Jamaica.

The airline identified the two as Louis F. Brantley and James W. Reid. Their home towns were not immediately available. An airline official in Atlanta said he had been told the men made uncomplimentary remarks about the

'Zero Or Less' Balance

Financial Picture Dark, New Ohio Director Says

News Heard By Cabinet Of DiSalle

Finance Chief Says State's Money Pinch 'Worst Since 1930's'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's financial situation is so bleak that the state may end its current fiscal period in June with a balance of "zero or less."

That was the news heard Monday by the cabinet appointees of Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle.

It came from the man who will be his finance director, James Maloon. Maloon called the state's financial pinch the "worst since the 1930's," when the state and nation were in the midst of a deep depression.

DiSalle had his cabinet here for a discussion of the coming administration's problems, and asked Maloon to tell all the department heads the dollar troubles they will be facing.

The new administration probably will inherit a deficit, and for at least six months, said Maloon, all departments will have to hold their spending under the levels originally designed in the last appropriation bills.

In June of 1957, Ohio ended a two-year fiscal period with a cash balance of 46 millions, said Maloon, but this time there is likely to be a deficit.

A major factor in this prospect is the fact that in February and again in May the state will have to put 45 million dollars into the school foundation fund.

The new finance director said there may have to be some borrowing from other funds to meet these payments, "even though it is anticipated there will be an upturn in sales tax receipts."

Another fiscal complication is on the horizon, he said, in connection with highway financing.

Under the new interstate highway program the federal government pays most of the cost—eventually. First the state has to pay out 100 per cent of the cost. Then it bills the federal government.

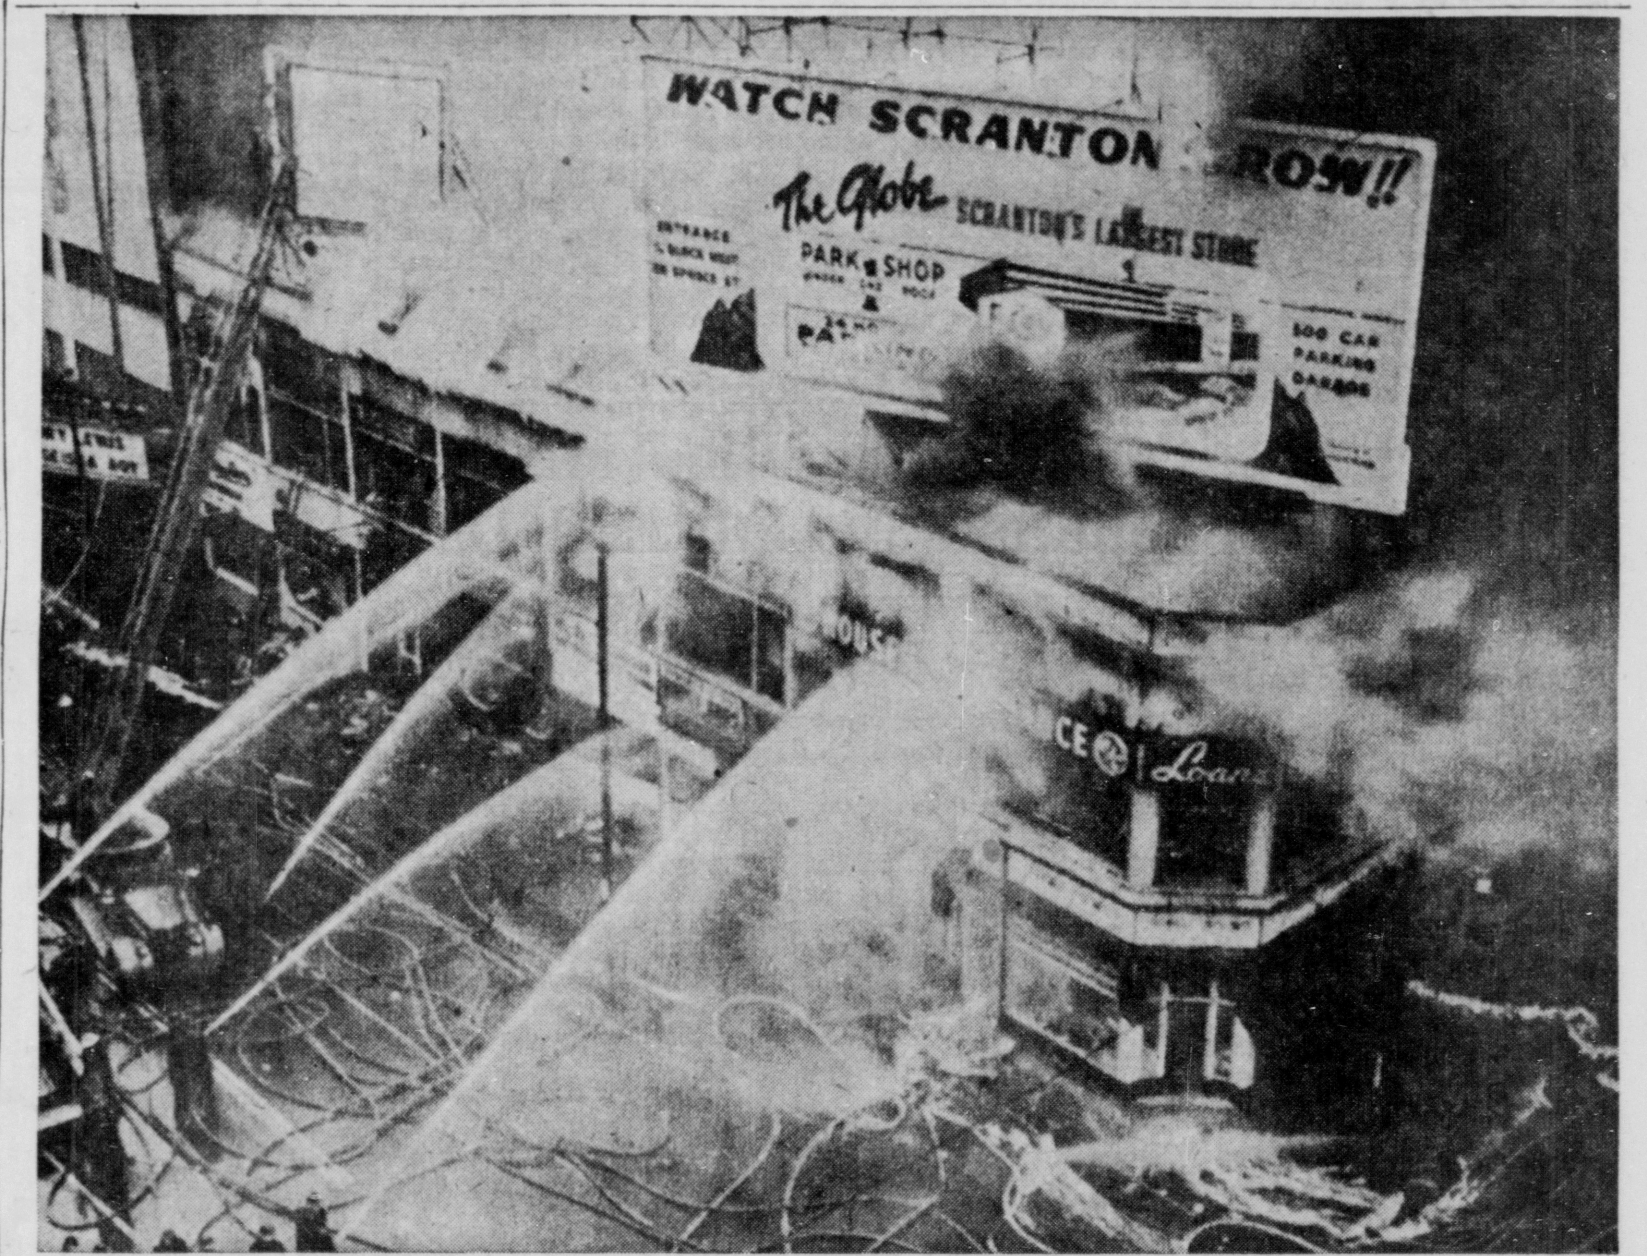

"But the money does not come back immediately," said Maloon. "There is a substantial delay and during the last year we have exceeded the highway allocations considerably."

DiSalle's admonition to his cabinet following this analysis was to think of the "needs" first and get around to the "wants" later—that is, only necessities can be taken care of first.

The new Democratic governor will be inaugurated Jan. 12. He said the question of making his appointments final may depend on whether the salary commission, a legislative study body, makes its report by that time.

"Depending on the salary adjustments, I might hold up a day or two on appointments," he said. He estimated the highway director's pay would be dropped $7,000

GOP Liberals Seek Accord On Candidates

Would Challenge Conservatives For Senate Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican liberals seek agreement today on a slate of candidates to challenge conservative colleagues for control of their party's Senate leadership.

With fewer than a dozen of the Senate's 34 Republicans represented, the GOP insurgents showed few signs of agreement on either tactics or personalities in advance of a closed meeting in the office of Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.).

Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.), who proposed at a previous session that the group get behind a full leadership slate, said he is offering Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) as a candidate for the floor leader post vacated by retiring Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.).

Cooper said in a separate interview he hasn't canvassed anybody to vote for him, but is willing to run for the job if the group backs him.

Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R-Calif.), who has been mentioned as a possible candidate, said he thinks the liberal group ought to concentrate on getting one of its members into the leadership lineup, without challenging veteran conservatives now holding top posts.

Aiken has been listed as the most likely candidate if the group decides on an all-out challenge to Sen. Everett Dirksen, the present GOP whip. Dirksen long has been the expected choice of a majority of the Senate Republicans to succeed Knowland.

That choice will be made when all GOP senators caucus at the

Crash Kills Elderly Man

3 Remain 'Critical' In Mahoning Wreck

SALEM — Three members of a Cleveland family are in "critical" condition at Central Clinic here as a result of a three-car crash Monday on Route 62 in what is a Boardman man, 74, was killed.

Nicholas J. Burton died of a crushed chest and internal injuries after his car collided with one operated by Walter T. Cook, 34, of Cleveland on Route 62, about 2 miles northwest in Mahoning County.

Cook, his wife, Colleen, 26, and a son, Merlin, 11, were hospitalized, and a step-son Robert Ferguson was treated and released. The State Highway Patrol at Canfield said Cook, headed south, passed a car driven by George Marzoff, 23, of Saline, Mich. Burton, who was headed north, slammed on his brakes, and skidded sideways into Cook's car.

Cook suffered a crushed chest and fractured ribs, and his wife received a possible skull fracture, severe lacerations of the face and a fractured leg. The boy has a laceration of the left eye.

The death brought to 30 the number of Mahoning County road fatalities this year, compared to 51 this time last year.

2 Democratic Mayor's Race Entrants Seen

Two prominent Democrats have been singled out as strong possibilities for their party's mayoralty race in the May primaries, political observers said today.

They are Bert H. Goodballet, former Council president, and Robert Owen, former First Ward councilman.

Both retired from public office at the end of 1957 after unsuccessful races in the general election for city offices. Goodballet was defeated by Fred P. Lawrence, Republican, in the mayoralty race and Owen lost to B. E. Warner, also a Republican, in a bid for Council president.

Goodballet served many years as First Ward councilman and later became council president. Owen was serving his first term in Council, representing East End.

Aside from Mayor Lawrence, Republicans have no prominently mentioned candidates for the mayoralty. Apparently would-be GOP contenders are biding their time to find if the incumbent will seek a second term. If he decides not to run, the party will have a host of candidates—possibly some who are veteran councilmen.

The party tickets will be shaped finally at 4 p. m. Feb. 4, the deadline for filing for the May primaries. All municipal offices will be at stake, including those of city auditor—a four-year term—and Municipal Court judge—a six-year tenure.

Primaries will be held in the county's four cities and four larger villages. The other communities are East Palestine, Wellsville and Salem cities and the villages of Columbiana, Leetonia, Lisbon and Salineville.

The filing deadline does not fall until August for non-partisan office-seekers in 18 townships, 17 school districts and five smaller villages. The so-called smaller villages are Hanoverton, New Waterford, Rogers, Summitville and Washingtonville.

Atlas May Be Visible If You Get Up Early

The Air Force's talking Atlas satellite may be visible over the East Liverpool area shortly before dawn this week.

It is scheduled Wednesday at 7:02 a. m. 20 degrees above the southern horizon, in orbit from the southwest to the northeast.

It will make another pass Thursday at 5:56 a. m. at 10 degrees above the southern horizon and at 6:32 a. m. Friday at 23 degrees above the horizon. Saturday's pass is slated at 5:19 a. m. 12 degrees up, according to the Moonwatch Station at the Allegheny Observatory at Pittsburgh.

Atlas To Stay In Orbit Longer Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's Atlas satellite is expected to stay in orbit more than twice as long as the 20 days first predicted. But the radio voice which relayed President Eisenhower's recorded message of peace and good will to the world is expected to die within the next 10 days.

The Defense Department now says the 8,000-pound Atlas may continue to orbit until about Feb. 1.

Celebration New Year's To 'Cost Plenty'

Prices To Be About Same As Last Year, Survey Indicates

NEW YORK (AP)—New Year's Eve at most of the nation's leading hotels and night spots will cost you about the same as last year—much, as you may recall, was plenty.

Celebrants who want dinner and entertainment will pay up to $37.50 a person — and extra for the drinks.

A survey of major cities turned up no sign that the night spots are upping prices noticeably this year, though the trend for flat prices on New Year's Eve has long been upward.

Top tabs will be paid at the Empire Room of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York and Los Angeles' Cocomat Grove.

At both places dinner, dancing, funny hats, horns and entertainment will cost about $37.50, including tax.

At the Waldorf's Empire Room that price will include listening to singer Eartha Kitt, Emil Coleman's orchestra and Gypsy violinist Bela Bebi.

Most well-heeled celebrants who want to do the evening up right in major cities will be paying about $25 a person, plus up to $1.25 a drink extra.

School Ballot Results Waited

Beaver Bond Issue Vote Indicated Light

Final returns are expected by 8 tonight on the outcome of a special election today in Beaver Local School District on a combination $220,000 bond issue and half-mill levy.

Sixteen polling places opened at 6:30 this morning and will close at 6:30 tonight. After the precinct tabulations are made, the polling place officials will report the figures to the County Election Board office on W. 6th St., where the combined count will be made.

If heavy fog or other weather conditions make driving extremely hazardous, the precinct officials will be permitted to report the figures by telephone tonight, taking the details to the office in person Wednesday, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, announced.

Enactment of the proposal would increase the district's bonded debt to the 9 per cent required to be eligible for a state grant of $326,000. The proposed levy would provide funds for partial repayment of the state grant.

Forenoon voting was termed "very light" by poll workers, indicating a total vote much less than the some 2,100 ballots cast in the Nov. 4 general election at the 16 precincts.

By 11 a. m. precinct workers at the Calcutta School and the Casting Club reported less than 20 ballots cast, compared to the 50 generally recorded at that time.

An average vote for the district is around 1,600, and today's turnout is expected to be less, one observer predicted.

Stores, Plants To Close

2nd General Holiday Due To Mark Advent Of 1959

Observing the second general holiday within a week, business, industry and public offices throughout the tri-state area will suspend operations Thursday to mark the advent of 1959.

Workday activity will be halted generally, but some industries will curtail their operations instead of ordering a complete shutdown. Federal, state, county and city offices will be closed, along with most business houses and all financial institutions.

East Liverpool stores will close at noon Wednesday, returning to their usual mid-week half-holiday after Christmas rush, the East Liverpool Merchants Association announced. Since they will be closed Thursday—ordinarily the one "long" shopping day of the week—the stores will remain open until 8:30 p. m. Friday.

Thursday will be a general holiday for East Liverpool area pottery plants. Shutdowns also are scheduled Thursday by the Louthan Manufacturing Co. and the Paterson Foundry & Machine Co., both of which will resume normal operations Friday.

The Ohio State Liquor Store started operations on an expanded schedule Monday to meet the rush for New Year's cheer. It will remain open until 9 tonight—two hours longer than usual—but will close at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

The Ohio State Employment Service Office on Washington St., will be closed for the holiday. Claimants who ordinarily report on

Furlough Of 5 Approved In Council Action

Legislation Permits Retention Of Others Hired With City Tax

Legislation that will require the furloughing of five new patrolmen at midnight Wednesday, but retaining all the other new personnel put on the payroll with income tax revenue in mid-1958, was approved unanimously by Council Monday night.

The cutback was accomplished through enactment of an ordinance reducing the authorized strength of the police department and the fire department. It cuts the police force to 26 from its present 31 and fixes fire department personnel at 31, a reduction of 2 that will have no effect because the department has two vacancies.

The ordinance implements an informal decision reached Dec. 19 by Council and the administration on personnel cutbacks forced by lack of funds as a result of repeal of the income tax at the Nov. 4 general election.

Council originally expected to lay off all newly-hired personnel—9 patrolmen, 3 firemen, 10 school crossing guards and a dog warden. However, it learned general fund receipts at the end of the year will total $30,000 more than had been anticipated and revenue from the same source will be $7,000

Albuquerque Buried

Raging Blizzard Hits New Mexico

DUMAS, Tex. (AP)—A raging blizzard has buried Albuquerque, New Mexico's largest city, under its heaviest snowfall, stranded thousands of motorists and claimed four lives. It continued to dump snow on the Southwest today.

Winds up to 60 miles per hour whipped the snow into drifts of up to six feet, blocking highways across eastern New Mexico, the Panhandle of Texas and into western Oklahoma.

Four hundred motorists — most of them Iowans bound for Pasadena, Calif., and the New Year's Day Rose Bowl football game between Iowa and California—were stranded at Tucumcari in eastern New Mexico when snow drifts blocked all roads in the area. They were housed in the National Guard armory and private homes after all hotels and motels were filled. Twenty inches of snow fell at Conchos Dam, 35 miles north of Tucumcari.

Another 400 motorists remained stranded today in this Texas Panhandle town after the howling blizzard drove a 6-inch snow into drifts six feet deep. Twenty-five persons doubled up in a small cafe and motel at the nearby crossroads hamlet of Four-Way.

The New Mexico state police said approximately 1,000 automobiles were marooned on 18-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 66 about 60 miles east of Albuquerque. Hundreds of other motorists found shelter in scores of Texas and New Mexico towns.

The 11-inch snowfall that crippled and isolated Albuquerque was the heaviest on record. Thousands of residents were without electricity or transportation as the howling blizzard knocked out power lines and blocked all roads into the city. Linemen worked through the night to slowly restore service after nearly 30,000 of the city's 68,000 electric meters were knocked out by broken power lines.

Snow continued to swirl early today in eastern New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and western Oklahoma. The U.S. Weather Bureau said another 3 to 4 inches could be expected before the snow tapered off later in the day.

Three of the deaths attributed to the storm were in Texas. Mrs. Elizabeth R. Whiteside, 38, Amarillo, Tex., and her daughter Tayna, 9, were killed when their car and a truck collided during a snowstorm at Vernon, Tex. L. D. Rundell, 35, was killed when his car ran into a freight train at Muleshoe, Tex. In Colorado, where snows ranging from 3 to 18 inches fell, a Denver traffic death was blamed on icy streets.

Ike To Sign Bill Making Alaska State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska will be proclaimed the 49th state and a new design for the American flag will be announced by the end of the week.

Alaskans arranged hurriedly for a solemn observance for their territory's admission after the White House announced that President Eisenhower would issue the statehood proclamation sometime this week.

Reports circulated in the Alaskan capital of Juneau that the action would come Saturday.

Hagerty said the proclamation will be accompanied by an executive order redesigning the Stars and Stripes for the addition of the new state. A screening committee has received nearly 2,000 suggestions for changing the flag. The new flags will go into use next July 4.

The presidential proclamation is all that remains to complete the statehood process. Alaska has finished all formalities preceding admission.

594 Killed On U.S. Roads During Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's final traffic death toll during the four-day Christmas holiday was 594.

The toll was under a pre-holiday estimate of 620 by the National Safety Council. It compared with 341 deaths counted during a recent 102-hour non-holiday period and to the record high of 706 for the four-day Christmas holiday weekend in 1956.

In addition to the auto fatalities, 93 persons died in fires and 97 in miscellaneous accidents for an over-all total of 784. The record over-all total is 884, also set in the Christmas period of 1956. California led the country in the number of traffic victims with 61. Texas had 43 and New York and Illinois 38 each.

Higher Phone Rates Slated For Thursday

30 To 60 Cents More Will Be Charged For Residential Service

The Public Utilities Commission in Columbus has approved a new schedule of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rates which authorize increases in basic monthly rates, along with adjustments in other charges that partially offset the increases. The new rates will go into effect Thursday.

In East Liverpool-Wellsville area, the basic rate for individual-line residence service will go up 60 cents a month and two-party lines 30 cents. In Wellsville, where four-party service still is offered, the monthly increase will be 30 cents.

This brings the rates for these three grades of service to $4.55, $3.65 and $3.10, respectively. Rural party-line service is increased 30 cents to $3.45 a month.

For business service here, the new rate for an individual, flat-rate line will be $10.75 a month and a measured line $7.10. On measured business service, the monthly allowance is liberalized from 85 to 90 calls, with the charge for additional calls upped from 4¢ to 5½ cents each.

In Salineville, the basic rate for

Informal Sessions Set To Air City's Finances

A big public meeting scheduled Jan. 7 at Westgate School to discuss municipal finances has been canceled in favor of a series of smaller, informal sessions that will bring together citizens, councilmen and administration spokesmen, Council President B. E. Warner announced Monday night.

Warner said Council decided on the series of meetings with smaller groups in contrast to a single session with a large audience. Dates for the new meetings will be announced later, he said.

The original proposal for a meeting representing city groups and city officials to discuss finances was made in mid-December by Warner. The plan called for Council and administration spokesmen to discuss finances with approximately 200 representatives for church, school, labor, civic, fraternal and service organizations.

'It Was Exhilarating'

Dayton Writer Describes His Flight Through Space

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—I have just made a trip through space. It was painful, it was terrifying, it was boring. But it was exhilarating.

I am glad it was done within the safe limits of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. Otherwise I have a suspicion I would not be writing this report.

Climbing to 100,000 feet altitude was frightening. The partial pressure suit was like a skintight room filled with pseudo-scientific tricks.

Water boiled when the altitude changed. I banged hands together at 100,000 feet and could hear only a thud. I dropped pieces of paper and they fell to the floor like lead sheets.

After pulling off a pressurized glove, then climbing to 90,000 feet my hand turned red and purple from under-the-skin hemorrhage. It puffed out from the lack of pressure.

Trying to turn it slightly brought excruciating pain. As I write this report my right hand still is red from the experience.

It was only after I was back down that I noticed a pinpoint or two of blood that had been forced from my hand.

I accomplished all this in a high altitude chamber wearing a pressure suit. I took the glove off to experience the sensation of no protection at such a staggering height. I was seated in an aircraft seat. My journey was made possible by Maj. Gen. Stanley T. Wray, commander, Wright Air Development Center (WADC).

Every astronomical mile of the way I was watched over by scientists and medical men of WADC whose first interest was my safety. They saw to it that I returned safely from "outer space."

In the chamber we climbed to a height of 43,000 feet where the atmosphere is about one-sixth that of ground level.

At this height our bodies ballooned out because the pressure inside was six times as great as they of the chamber. We wore no pressure suits, only an oxygen mask.

At 43,000 feet oxygen must be forced into the lungs and an effort is required to exhale.

The feeling is unpleasant to the uninitiated and any one of a number of mistakes could mean trouble.

Without oxygen at this altitude, unconsciousness would occur in less than 30 seconds.

Space is a fearful thing. Rapid decompression is a very real hazard at today's altitudes.

Pumps compress air in the cockpits or cabins of today's high-flying aircraft to simulate a lower altitude. If a leak, or break, occurs in the cabin decompression immediately follows.

In the indoctrination chamber, we decompressed from 8,000 to 22,500 feet in a split second.

There was a resounding boom and a white haze appeared. The air was sucked out of our lungs, rippling through our lips. We put on our oxygen masks.

In another experiment, at 30,000 feet, we disconnected our masks and waited for the effects of hypoxia—lack of oxygen. At this altitude unconsciousness would follow in one or two minutes.

Within seconds, I felt dizzy and my vision seemed to dim. Hooking up the oxygen I felt better almost immediately.

The one-day course completed successfully, with a physical check by the flight surgeon under my belt, I then was ready for space travel as they know it at WADC.

Fantastic vibration, oppressive "G" forces and unbelievable noise jarred my every faculty as I blasted off into outer space.

I was jarred up and down at a force of one "G" each way—nine times a second.

I was whirled through space at a force of three and one-half "Gs."

"G" is for gravity. Everyone has one "G" force equal to his weight pulling him to earth.

At two and one-half "Gs" a 200-pound man would weigh 500 pounds. "Gs" are caused by acceleration—most people have felt them on the bottom of a hill riding a roller coaster.

During acceleration into space, the "G" force will be so great that only the fingers can be moved. Once in space man will be weightless—no "Gs" at all and will float free.

An electrical charge, a great deal less than the average house circuit, was passed through my head. It caused my mind to play tricks on me—the same type of illusion that may wait in space.

In the equilibrium chair, a device that rolls and pitches like a crazed bronco as it jars up and down, I clutched at the control stick trying to keep the craft on an even keel.

The moon seemed a long way off, but the noise and vibration was real. I was later to learn of the awesome silence of space.

I lost three pounds in two hours. But on the blastoff, the noise, vibration and "G" forces were an unforgettable experience. Oddly enough, WADC scientists say noise and vibration are one and the same.

To simulate the "G" forces that tear at your face and press on your lungs, I was placed on a 48-foot long human centrifuge. Its axis and driving mechanism are in the center.

The centrifuge, known affectionately as "the wheel" is capable of whirling a man at 20 GS—a force that could prove fatal.

My position on the wheel was that of a seated person, although I was on my back. A large brace was clamped to my chest.

As the wheel began to move, my carriage turned so my back was away from the axis. Thus the "G" forces passed through my body from the back.

At three and one-half "Gs" my mouth seemed to tear away from my gums. I couldn't lift my head and I'm sure I couldn't have gotten out of the seat.

My arms grew heavy and I could begin to feel the pressure on my chest.

The wheel has carried men to forces up to "16 GS." This, according to Capt. Neville Clarke, the man in charge of the wheel, would put a man in orbit around the earth.

"G" forces can best be sustained by man in the "transverse" position according to Capt. Clarke. Feet first, or head first, man probably could not take the "G" forces of blast off.

But "G" forces, vibration, noise, heat and cold are not the only problems waiting in the blackness of space. The mind itself may play tricks.

I was apprehensive, to say the least, when an electrode was placed behind each ear and an electric current passed through my head.

I could soon feel a pulsating through my entire body—I stood up and seemed to sway to and fro. I looked out the window and the landscape blurred.

They say my eyes shifted from side to side. In some, the electric current produces motion sickness. It seems real to the individual and may last for several hours. It did not occur in my case.

The electrical jolt in the head which disrupts the equilibrium is still in the experimental stage at WADC. Just what will be learned and what value it will be to the total program remains to be seen.

Cancer Killing Blind Man's Faithful Dog Little Each Day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheba dies a little bit every day. And a piece of Ray Myers' heart goes with her.

They're buddies, you know. Close as only a blind man and his dog can be.

For three weeks the gray German shepherd has lived on will power and love. She goes right on working, guiding her master through the city hubbub.

The scores of people who scurry past them at the little sidewalk stand where Myers sells novelties little know she's in agony from the cancer eating her intestines and throat.

"She should have been put to sleep three weeks ago," said Morris Kaufman, a cafe owner, and a friend of the blind man. "The vet is trying to keep her alive until Ray gets a new dog."

Sheba's not old. Ray trained her himself when he bought her for a dollar 2½ years ago when she was young.

He won't be training his new dog. Professionals will do that. On Jan. 10 he starts two or three weeks of schooling with the dog which will become his new eyes. This was one of the things arranged by Kaufman.

Kaufman also got a new room for Ray when he was evicted because of Sheba. And patrons of the cafe and employees of a large store nearby chipped in on expenses for the new dog and its training.

Sheba scarcely touches her food now. Each day she gets more gaunt and finds it harder to get to her feet. She gets pills three times a day, for the pain.

She'll go to her well-earned rest just before the new dog enters her master's life, if she lives that long.

Toledo Clerks Favor Ending Long Walkout

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—In meetings Monday members of the Retail Clerks Union voted overwhelmingly in favor of an agreement to end their 13-month strike against three Toledo department stores.

The vote was 172-13 in the afternoon meeting of employees of LaSalle's. At a night meeting of strikers against Lamson's and the Lion Store the vote was unanimous, union spokesmen reported.

None of the three stores was closed by the strike, and union picketing was concentrated on the Macy-owned LaSalle's.

The stores have announced they will start sending out letters to employees notifying them they can apply for reinstatement in their jobs. A spokesman for the employers said all should be back by Feb. 2.

The agreement voted on Monday was reached on Dec. 24 in negotiations.

Details were not disclosed, but the agreement provided for an immediate ending of all picketing and halting of all national boycott activities by the union against the Macy organization.

The strike started after contract talks between the union and Retail Associates, Inc., representing the stores, broke off in November, 1957. The dispute included a series of court actions by both sides.

'Democrats Come Marching In'

Labor Seen In Legislature Saddle

By ART PARKS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Defeated Republicans and conservatives in general are saying that organized labor will be in the saddle in the Ohio Legislature which meets next week.

How the leadership of the first Democratic-dominated Legislature in a decade copes with that feeling probably will be a play-by-play proposition. There are early signs, however, that the Democrats are taking their big task seriously.

Veteran senators and representatives are aware that they were elected not only to represent their districts, but to consider the welfare of the state as a whole. Privately, they are talking of caution—a take-it-easy approach to the problems facing the state.

Their attitude right now: "The Democratic state platform is good enough for us. If we can get that platform adopted into law in the next two sessions, we will be satisfied."

If the Democratic platform is to be the key to the coming Legislature's performance, Ohioans need to refresh their memories on the contents of that document, to remind themselves what they voted for.

One glance indicates a more liberal slant on public issues than that demonstrated by recent Republican-controlled Legislatures.

Based on the text of the platform itself, these major developments appear to be in the wind: Supplemental Unemployment Benefits

"We favor permitting labor and management to retain the freedom of providing for supplemental unemployment benefits and union security provisions according to contracts arrived at by collective bargaining." Look for an early move to legalize simultaneous payments of SUB and state benefits.

Unemployment Compensation Workmen's Compensation

"We pledge to enact legislation which will increase the unemployment and workmen's compensation benefits so that they will be commensurate with the cost of living. Payments of workmen's compensation to those injured should be increased and expedited."

Fair Employment Practices
"We are dedicated to the enactment of legislation and enforcement of such legislation as will guarantee the civil liberties and the civil rights of all people in all fields. Discrimination in employment on the grounds of race, creed or national origin should be eliminated. We favor the adoption of a fair employment practices act with appropriate enforcement provisions."

Minimum Wages
"We advocate legislation to establish a reasonable state minimum wage law."

Aid For The Aged
"We favor removing the $65 monthly ceiling now imposed on old age pensions, and putting aid on a need basis. We shall at all times fulfill our responsibility to aid the aged, the blind, the disabled, the crippled child, the widowed mother, the poor and the handicapped."

Public Utilities
"The old formula for setting rates for public utility services has become outmoded and costly to the consumers. We propose the adoption of a formula for rates that will be fair to the consumer, and at the same time afford a reasonable return on investments."

Mental Health
"We need expanded programs for mental hospitals, retarded children and those persons afflicted with alcoholism. Such programs require not only more buildings, but the recruitment of more trained personnel."

Public Employees
"We pledge our efforts to grant to public employees such increases as will tend to make their compensation commensurate with the benefits and wages to private industry."

Tax Structure
"We favor the appointment of a commission to make a comprehensive study of our tax structure and to determine whether a more equitable system of collection and distribution of taxes can be made."

Local Governments
"We feel the state should recognize its responsibility for increasing appropriations to the local government fund as it increases local responsibilities. The state should develop a fair and equitable formula for distributing funds which will not discourage local subdivisions from helping themselves."

County Fees
"We condemn the veto of the county fee bill which was designed to relieve the local taxpayer of the burden of subsidizing out of general tax funds the special services rendered by county officers. We pledge enactment of appropriate legislation to correct this inequity."

Highways
"The so-called crash highway programs are extravagant . . . a balanced program requires attention to our secondary system as well as to our interstate and major system . . . the right of eminent domain is a sacred privilege granted to government by the people. Its use in a high-handed, dictatorial manner must stop. Right-of-way must be acquired by negotiation and mediation whenever possible."

Education
"We will continue the standard of state aid provided in the school foundation program. The rapid rise of population calls for an immediate program of technical and scientific schools and junior colleges to accommodate the anticipated increased enrollment in our colleges and universities."

Obviously, some of the platform pledges will cost the state money. "Spare cash in the state treasury right now is a scarce commodity. For years, the state has carried a comfortable cushion of surplus money, but no more."

The surplus has vanished in the 1957-58 recession. In case you, an Ohio voter, didn't know it already, this coming Legislature is not going to be able to put off the evil day.

Former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, with much juggling, did it for several years. GOP Gov. C. William O'Neill hoped prosperity would last at least two more years—but it didn't. In short, we in Ohio have reached the point we might well have reached six years ago.

Headon Crash Driver Fined

No One Injured In Accident On Route 7

No one was injured in a headon auto collision in the fog on Route 7 at Flag Pole Hill about two and a half miles north of Stratton Monday at 10 a. m., the Wintersville State Highway Patrol said today. Cars driven by Herbert Woods, 54, of Rochester and Robert Parilla, 22, of Girard collided as Woods started passing a truck.

Woods was fined $10 and costs for passing without the assured clear distance at a hearing yesterday before Judge Helen Hunstman of Toronto.

Officers today still are investigating a one-car crash on Route 213 a half mile from Route 7 in which two Hammondsville girls were injured about 9 a. m. yesterday.

A car driven by Miss Rosalind Baker, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Baker, slid over an embankment and into Little Yellow Creek.

Miss Baker and her passenger, Miss Dana Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson of Hammondsville, jumped from the car when it started to slide. They were treated at the Osteopathic Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Beefeaters' Rent Hiked
Despite Strike Threat

LONDON (AP) — The government raised rents today for the Beefeaters at the Tower of London despite their threat to strike.

The Beefeaters are colorfully uniformed yeoman wardens in the ancient, central London castle by the Thames River. The men are retired warrant officers from the military services who live with their families within the tower's gray walls.

They have been paying only a nominal rent of 5 shillings (70 cents) a week and in return performed such duties as night security work, standing guard on winter Sundays when the tower is closed and appearing in church parades.

Tower authorities announced two weeks ago they would increase the rent to a pound ($2.80). The Beefeaters said they'd stop the extra work if that happened.

Today the minister of works made the increase official.

Marine Court Martial Opens

Sergeant Blames Parents For Recruits Complaints

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — More defense testimony was scheduled today in the general court-martial of a Marine sergeant accused of roughing up recruits and accepting payoffs from them.

The court-martial panel — composed of seven Marine officers — in the Buckeye platoon, is accused only of assault.

Grant's defense attorneys sought to show Monday that the uproar over treatment handed out to the Ohio recruits at this Marine training center was stirred up mainly by some of their parents.

That contention hinged on admissions by some of the witnesses that they had given sworn statements harmful to Grant only after prolonged discussions with their parents.

The defense claimed the original statements taken before the recruits went home on leave completely cleared Grant of wrongdoing.

But they said statements taken after they returned from Ohio reversed their position, implicating Grant in the shakedown and assault charges.

Sergeant Blames Parents For Recruits Complaints

More defense testimony was scheduled today in the general court-martial of a Marine sergeant accused of roughing up recruits and accepting payoffs from them.

The court-martial panel — composed of seven Marine officers — in the Buckeye platoon, is accused only of assault.

Grant's defense attorneys sought to show Monday that the uproar over treatment handed out to the Ohio recruits at this Marine training center was stirred up mainly by some of their parents.

That contention hinged on admissions by some of the witnesses that they had given sworn statements harmful to Grant only after prolonged discussions with their parents.

The defense claimed the original statements taken before the recruits went home on leave completely cleared Grant of wrongdoing.

But they said statements taken after they returned from Ohio reversed their position, implicating Grant in the shakedown and assault charges.

Members of the Steel Valley platoon were recruited last spring in the Youngstown - Warren area of Ohio.

The defense claimed the $10 collected from each man went to pay such personal expenses as laundry and shoe repairs.

Grant is charged with rapping two recruits over the heads with a plastic mess cup. One of them, Pfc. Raymond Theisler of Youngstown, required 11 stitches to close a scalp wound.

Theisler said he was sleeping on the rifle range at the time and did not know how the injury was inflicted.

But Pvt. William K. Hartman of Leavittsburg, Ohio, said he saw Grant strike Theisler. Other recruits supported Hartman's statement.

Hartman also said Grant coerced him into signing a statement that the cut was accidentally inflicted by a rifle.

The general courts - martial of Sgt. Willard B. Poss of Augusta, Ga., and Sgt. Ronald J. Heller of Milwaukee, will follow Grant's military trial.

Poss is accused of assault and with soliciting a $690 sergeants' kitty made up of $10 donations from each of the 69 recruits in the platoon.

They May Not Love Each Other

By this time next year, according to diplomatic prospects, the remarriage of the two Germanys either will have been negotiated by their guardians, or the guardians will have gone to war over the deadlock.

It is a bone-chilling prospect the diplomats have painted — and among those most horrified by it are many citizens of West Germany and East Germany who do not want either end of the choice.

Only recently has it crossed the minds of their guardians that reunification of Germany, which the guardians have held out as the rosiest of all possible hopes, may have no appeal for West Germans and East Germans.

Having learned how to live separately, thanks to the guardians who would not let them live together, they may have learned to like the idea more than the thought of going through the upheaval that would be necessary if they were to be reunited.

If it were the purpose of the Soviet Union's recent policy to reveal that East Germany could not be reunited with West Germany, it could not have chosen a more direct path to a showdown than by approaching a clash with the United States, Great Britain and France over the status of Berlin.

This will force a general review of the status of Germany, itself. The review will be meaningless without discussion of German reunification. And the question of reunification will raise the vital question of opinion among the Germans, themselves.

It may be like one of those marriages arranged by parents, in which everybody has been consulted but the potential bride and groom who, in the showdown, refuse to have anything to do with each other. West Germany may not want to give up what it has acquired since World War II to share its lot with East Germany. And the further fact is that the Germans who have stayed in East Germany may show favor for the Communists who have had 12 years to teach them the obedience expected of citizens in a totalitarian state.

Russia's ultimatum of Nov. 27 demanding Allied withdrawal from West Berlin within six months has lit a time fuse on the most explosive issue created by the loose-end settlement of World War II. It cannot be postponed. One way or another, the issue is going to be settled in 1959.

But instead of a choice between German reunification and war, it might be a choice between war and the retention of two Germanys, with Berlin continuing to be the central point of contact between them.

Is Money On Its Way Out?

Beginning early next year, a controversial adjustment to the credit-card idea will be tried by various restaurants in Wisconsin and Washington whose proprietors will charge 5 per cent service charges on diners using cards. The proprietors explain they will be trying to recover the commission they must pay the issuers of the credit card for the service they perform.

They have a choice between raising prices for all patrons, to recover the cost of credit-card commissions, and charging the cost directly to the users of the cards.

This suggests the possibility that cash customers may be put at such a marked disadvantage if credit-card society continues to grow by leaps and bounds that they will be forced to join it because they can't lick it. The axiom that everybody must pay for credit whether he uses it or not will attain dimensions not dreamed of until recently.

Gresham's law about bad money driving out good money will be modified to say that credit drives out cash. There is no likelihood that the credit card will quit growing in popularity. One large hotel chain now does half of its business on credit-card billing. Besides restaurants and hotels, oil companies, airlines, railroads, auto rental services and American Telephone & Telegraph Co. are carrying on the practice.

Even banks are getting into it. Chase Manhattan Bank of New York City on Dec. 1 announced charge account credit. Cardholders receive one bill from the bank a month. Creditors receive cash at once for all sales slips presented at the bank, paying fees ranging downward from 6 per cent, depending on volume.

It is conceivable that in less than a generation a tot may be born in this country who never will see money. When he goes to kindergarten, he will get his first credit card and thereafter his signature will carry him to his grave, unsoiled by filthy lucre.

Prize In Each And Every Box

Beginning with February payments, social security benefits for more than 12 million Americans will be increased in varying amounts. The total increase in benefits will be about 700 million dollars.

They will be underwritten, however, by increased taxes of more than a billion dollars on approximately 74 million Americans. The taxes will be raised again next year and every three years until 1969. Moreover, the taxable wage base will be increased in 1959 from $4,200 a year to $4,800.

It is mathematically possible that a wage earner who paid a maximum of $94.50 in 1958 could be charged $120 in 1959 and as much as $216 in 1969 — yet there has not been a peep of protest against one of the stiffest tax boosts of all time.

It has not even been described as a tax boost, due to the remarkable success of the federal government in applying a new pattern of psychology to social security taxation.

Actually, it is an old pattern of psychology applied in a new set of circumstances—a pattern as old as the "prize in each and every box" that once made it possible for candy butchers in theaters to make customers think they were getting a bargain. The psychology was to make them think about the prize, not the price.

The revenue from social security taxes is credited to social security accounts, but the money received is invested in government securities, thereby becoming part of the federal government's debt. Thus, it is carried on the books as an account payable at some future date out of anticipated earnings, to distinguish it from ordinary debt which in effect is non-payable because there is no requirement for its systematic retirement.

Some Still Say, 'I Remember Dobbin'

So auto insurance rates are going to be boosted again.

And President Ike is going to plaster another cent a gallon on the federal gasoline tax.

And there are legislative rumblings about boosting the state gas tax, too.

The price of cars was notched up a little higher this year, as usual.

It wouldn't be so bad if you never had known anything else. But some still say, "I remember Dobbin..."

Old Dob ate grass all spring and summer, with oats thrown in for additive, to give him that getaway oomph. In winter, he ate dried grass, which was cheap and indigenous. It didn't have to be piped in from anywhere via interstate commerce.

He was easy to park. You unhitched him if you were going to be gone awhile. Otherwise, you tied him to anything he couldn't drag away, maybe a horse block carried in the buggy.

If you felt bushed, you tied the reins around the whipsocket and told Dobbin to "go home." He went, setting his own pace. Most Dobbins always set their own pace. Urging them to hurry was a waste of breath.

There were no head-on collisions. Occasionally, a horse kicked up his heels or bolted, but there was no fatality toll for holiday weekends in the era of the Dobbins. No one went much of anywhere, but on the other hand was no hurry about getting back.

There was no tax on hay, no tax on oats and no tax on grass. Dobbin, himself, was good for 20 years if he didn't spavin or founder.

And if a driver got lonesome, he could have a heart-to-heart talk.

The automobile is here to stay. It's basic transportation, a prestige symbol, a sign of the times — and a bigger pain in the pocketbook every year.

The Once Over

The United States will issue a new penny in a few weeks. Why it thought a new one necessary is not clear, as the demand for a penny of any type has fallen off to a point where few people want one. (Perhaps it's the souvenir craze.)

The words "One Cent" will be retained on coin, but "Wanna Bet?" added in parenthesis.

Lincoln's head will be removed and replaced by bust of the inventor of the parking meter. We asked a government coinage chief about the situation and he said, "Not even children will stoop to pick up the old penny any more. We thought if we issued a flashier one, the kids might not get so indignant if offered a penny to do a trivial errand."

"Had you thought of an outer-space penny?" we asked.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"A penny with Cape Canaveral on one side and a spaceship or intercontinental rocket on the other. This would have special appeal to the kids just now," we said.

THE MAN SAID it was pretty futile to try to restore interest in a penny and that he was concentrating on nickels, dimes and quarters in the hope people might have some slight regard for them. He favored taking off the inscription "E Pluribus Unum," as too many people think it means "No good except in cargo lots."

"How about the dime?"

"It will be left largely alone as suitable for telephone slots, one roll (unbuttered) or a half interest in a postage stamp. The quarter is our big problem. We must try to do something to it that will influence railroad station porters, taxi drivers and bellhops to accept it without a protest."

"What design changes do you have in mind?"

"Well, first of all the eagle is the wrong bird for a coin of such low-flying potentials. I favor the clipped-wing pigeon. George Washington's face is no longer proper. "George stood for stability, attainment of an objective and reliability in the pinches. Most Americans now regard the quarter as just for laughs. We might replace Washington with George Gobel."

THIS MUST BE about the time when Mrs. Kris Kringle finding him still in bed in a total state of exhaustion asks, "Tell me, is there a Santa Claus?"

Union Members Lack Interest

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

This apparently exclusive report that indignation has gone out of style was deliberately held up by this column to avoid watering your Christmas cheer.

An outpouring of protest may be a high-buttoned shoe sensitivity. But this tale of nine families with 18 children — in holiday week made bleak because their breadwinners fight for their rights — should be told.

I write of unemployed men, made jobless because they fought a local union barony. They are not workless and payless for lack of skills. They are strong men who can handle massive cranes.

They spent the pre-holiday days at quickie odd tasks. One sold puppies in a pet store at $5 a day. Another delivered Christmas packages for a few hours at $1.25 for each back — breaking 60 minutes. Others found laborers' work wherever they could — and some couldn't. Their families ate less.

I could tell you their names. But one will do. He is Bill Wilkins, one of the "boys" who hit the beach at Salerno and walked in the rain through valleys of death.

HE WOUND UP in a Nazi prisoner of war concentration camp so the swastika would not wave for a 1,000 years. He is one of the jobless.

For five years I have watched him battle the machine controlling the Long Island Operating Engineers Local 138.

Bill was with me on the air the night I stopped a glass full of concentrated sulphuric acid. He wept at my hospital bed because he had left me an hour too soon.

But there have been no tears for Bill Wilkins and his good companions though they have fought so hard and so long — and have had at their side, from time to time, the McClellan committee, the national AFL-CIO leaders, the courts, the clergy and the labor board.

But such are the laws of the land that the local union boss, Bill DeKoning, Jr., can control a union hiring hall and he is not one to regard his enemies even at Christmas time.

So once more the embattled men began a weary march to the forces of the state. Yet in this season of holiday compassion I wonder not at their angry fight.

I WONDER NOW at the rock hewn, iron hand in the iron glove — William DeKoning of the Operating Engineers. He is their enemy. He is the symbol so many have fought in controlled local unions across the land. Change the names. Change the sets. The play's the same everywhere in local such as this one.

I wonder only that the public forgets and lets men fight alone. I wonder only at the rank-and-file of scores of locals who forget an old labor chant that an injury to one is an injury to all.

Nor is this wonderment eased by a report the other day I received from friends in Connecticut. In that state the Legislature passed a law requiring all unions to file annual financial reports. Some 600 unions reported. It was presumed that the rank-and-file would be consumed with passionate interest in what happened to their money.

TOWARDS THIS year's end I checked. I was told that of the tens of thousands of workers, only one man came to inquire. I thought of the words of Mr. Labor himself, AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Not too long ago he hit the union convention circuit. He spoke thus: "In finding the answer from our trade union point of view we must look at the problem and say: 'How did these things happen?'"

"I tell you why they happened. They happened because the unions got away from the members or the members got away from the unions. ... It can't happen if union membership meetings are fully attended and if reports are made periodically to those meetings. ...

"We've got to find some way to bring about an attendance of the workers at the meetings of their unions. ... there is something fundamentally wrong in the approach to the trade movement by some of the people who have come into it in recent years. ... If the concept is that the union is some sort of business entity and you pay your dues to it and then look to results, then ... people who are dishonest and have motives of their own ... will come in and take over. ...

Into Outer Space

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — A quick glance back through 1958 shows vividly how, in a year's time, the nation and the government became terribly conscious of outer space and the need to conquer it.

There had been years of work on rocket and outer space projects. But then suddenly in the fall of 1957 the Russians shot their Sputniks aloft. It was both a shock and a baptism in humiliation for the United States.

Instantly there was this broad public reaction: "How did it happen and what can we do?" Out of this dismay there has sprung in a year's time a whole new batch of agencies, councils and committees concerned with the space age.

As a starter President Eisenhower on Nov. 7, 1957, created a new job—special assistant to the President for science and technology — and picked for it Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His tasks were many, among them helping to eliminate inter-service rivalry in the missile and related fields, and mobilizing scientific talent for the nation's scientific defense program.

He is technical adviser to the President and to Eisenhower's National Security Council—a kind of second Cabinet concerned with defense — and is chairman of the President's Science Advisory Committee, a group of scientists.

Only last week, after a 10-month study, this committee recommended to Eisenhower creation of a federal council for science and technology to promote closer cooperation among federal agencies in planning their development and research programs.

The group suggested also Killian be named head of the council. Eisenhower approved.

But in between the appointment of Killian in the fall of 1957 and the recommendation of the advisory committee last week these were some of the other things that happened:

In July the House and Senate both voted to create new standing committees on space and science. The House committee has 25 members, the Senate 15.

This action was taken just a few days after both houses approved creation of a brand new government agency: NASA — the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Its purpose: to supervise civilian space-age efforts.

The Defense Department will continue to control space activities connected with national defense. The President will settle any dispute between NASA and the Defense Department.

Eisenhower appointed T. Keith Glennan as head of NASA. Actually, the agency is under Eisenhower's direct control, with the advice of an eight-member council. On this council, besides Eisenhower and Glennan, are the secretaries of state and defense, the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, a federal official who could be a military or nonmilitary man, and three outside members appointed by the President.

In addition, the Defense Department set up the new Office of Director of Research and Engineering, under Dr. Herbert York, a physicist, and an Advanced Research Projects Agency under Roy Johnson. ARPA's job is with space flight for the military.

The State Department, finally realizing that its handling of foreign affairs in this age can't be divorced from scientific development, got itself a science adviser, Dr. Wallace R. Brode, and recently assigned seven scientists as attaches in American embassies overseas.

Goldfine's Sentence

By David Lawrence

Jail Term Seen Unwarranted In Case

There's something pathetic and tragic about Bernard Goldfine. If he were a Communist or Communist sympathizer, he would have plenty of defenders, including various "civil liberty" organizations which would be crying out loudly that there is a man being denied his constitutional rights.

David Lawrence

This correspondent has never met Mr. Goldfine nor had any relations with him or his businesses but feels that he is entitled to a fair deal in the courts. It is cruel to "lynch" him and fasten upon him a stigma for life when he has not been given a trial by jury as guaranteed him by the Constitution. Nor has he been tried in an atmosphere free from prejudice or prejudgment, as the rules of court procedure require.

Federal Judge Wyzanski, in effect, conceded this in open court last week when, in pronouncing sentence, he said:

"I am not unmindful that when persons of political consequence get into difficulty the whole community holds a sadistic spirit."

The judge also said he wouldn't make the sentence as long as one year, because this would require presidential action to get a pardon and could drag the matter further into the realm of politics.

Not so long ago Dennis Delaney, U.S. collector of internal revenue at Boston, was convicted on a criminal charge and the U.S. Court of Appeals there set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial at a later date because a congressional investigation on the same subject was going on at the time.

THIS WAS RULED to be an influence that would make it difficult for the defendant to get a fair trial.

What are the real issues in the Goldfine case?

The press has already reported that he has been sentenced to jail but what has not been reported is the legal background which makes it doubtful whether such a sentence will ever be upheld in the higher courts. Mr. Goldfine got into legal trouble in three different situations, as follows:

First, the New England textile manufacturer refused to answer certain questions asked by a congressional committee. Four eminent lawyers advised him these were irrelevant questions and that the committee had no constitutional right to compel answers.

Also, the congressional committee asked the questions at the same time that minority stockholders in the company under inquiry had filed suit. The federal judge had under advisement at that time whether to approve or disapprove the settlement offered by Mr. Goldfine. It was finally approved but the basic constitutional question is whether a congressional committee may interfere in a matter that is being coincidentally tried in the courts. This has often been held to be an encroachment on the judicial process.

Second, the Securities and Exchange Commission ordered certain data to be filed immediately by Mr. Goldfine, and he complied two weeks after the order was issued.

For a technical delay, he was made the subject of a court suit. It was amicably settled by his payment of the expenses involved in the proceedings.

Except for the political atmosphere prevailing, this kind of technicality would probably have been ignored. It has been disregarded in many instances where other companies are concerned.

THIRD, MR. GOLDFINE was ordered by the Internal Revenue Service to deliver his accounts for several years back in five of his companies. He delivered the papers and then asked for six months in which to work over those same papers in order to prepare his tax returns. To delay payment on income tax returns is not in itself a crime but does involve a fine and accumulated interest if the delay cannot be justified.

Mr. Goldfine was given 60 days by the court to work on his papers. He then produced nearly a ton of papers but withheld seven books needed for current operations.

The judge ordered him to surrender them to the Internal Revenue Service.

Instead, Mr. Goldfine's lawyers produced them in court and argued that they had a right to retain the originals while submitting photographic copies to the Internal Revenue Service.

The judge disagreed and, instead of imposing a fine as is customary in such cases, sentenced Mr. Goldfine to jail.

The latter had complied for all practical purposes with the court order but not at the exact moment or in the technical form demanded by the judge. Yet on this narrow ground a prominent businessman is being branded throughout the country as a criminal and given a jail sentence.

Incidentally, there has been some criticism expressed by members of the bar in Boston because the judge who sat in the case had a personal controversy with Mr. Goldfine earlier this year which was widely publicized and because judges under such circumstances are expected to disqualify themselves.

This points up the importance of jury trials in criminal contempt cases.

The Constitution says that "in all criminal prosecutions" a citizen is entitled to a trial by "an impartial jury." No exceptions are mentioned. Otherwise, the judge in criminal contempt cases becomes the accuser as well as the prosecutor and the "jury."

One Easy Lesson

By Truman Twill

The fastest - growing problem in the land of the free is what to do with the "rejects."

When the U.S. Army let it be known it was dropping misfits after they already had been recruited and drafted, that clinched the case.

For thousands of years, military service has been a last chance for people who did not measure up to service standards for other occupations. A man always could carry a gun.

But with gun-carrying becoming a skilled occupation, too, the unskilled and unskilled citizen is going to find a traditional open door closed.

He already had been shut out of agriculture and industry, two other sanctuaries. There is no place in mechanized agriculture for an all-thumbs guy, and the pick-and-shovel gang is disappearing.

It is not altogether a question of mental ability, though ability to learn has heavy bearing. First of all, it is a question of developed skill.

When the chips go down, there is a premium on the job-seeker who already knows how to perform a specialty, even though he may be no great shakes in all-around ability.

It is better to be an ordinary guy who knows how to run a particular kind of machine than to be a whiz-kid with no previously established job classification.

A Rhodes scholar who does not know his way around a mechanized farm is less qualified to latch onto a job in agriculture than a bumpkin who had learned by previous experience that a tractor will pull itself over on its back if its horsepower exceeds the drag on the drawbar.

The indispensable qualification is skill. The people who are going to be left out of it — the rejects — are the unskilled. Everything has been figured out efficiently, except what to do with them.

On-the-job training is part of an answer, but it works only when jobs are hunting jobholders and when the recruits are capable of learning. What the U.S. Army is doing, in effect, is to dump those least likely to learn.

It is all part of the weeding-out process that ensues whenever more men get into competition with mechanization and automation.

Potato - sorting once was a job for unskilled labor. The decisions were tough when they were on the borderline, but even a mental lumpy could get the hang of the difference between a big potato and a small potato.

But today, even potato-sorting is done by machinery, which doesn't crack up under the pressure of making decisions. Machinery counts the widgets on production lines. Machinery digs and shovels. Machinery sorts and grades people looking for something to do.

Just about the only work left for the unskilled is to give opinions in public - opinion polls, answers in telephone surveys of the popularity of TV programs and momentous decisions at the polls on election day — all unpaid occupations.

It looks as if this might have to be the answer to the collective problem of the unskilled — to turn their mere physical presence as members of the population into a kind of paid occupation.

They can become "panelists," like those people on television who support themselves from week to week by filling a chair and remembering not to do anything unsightly while "on camera." No skill required.

What else?

The country which has had the greatest number of earthquakes in the world is Chile, with Japan ranking second. For every 1,000 earthquakes felt in Chile, there are 431 in Japan.

Chicago Theater Blaze That Killed 600 Recalled

By GENE MCDANIEL

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifty-five years ago today Chicago and the nation were stunned by one of the worst fire tragedies in modern history.

More than 600 persons, 212 of them children, perished when the new Iroquois Theater burned during a matinee performance Dec. 30, 1903.

The Iroquois, on Randolph St. just west of State in downtown Chicago, had opened only 38 days before the fire and was billed as "absolutely fireproof." But much of the fireproofing had not been completed in the rush to open.

There was a standing room only crowd in the theater to watch an extravaganza starring the late Eddie Foy. About 1,700 patrons were seated and another 200 were standing.

The fire last only 15 minutes.

But hundreds of men, women and children were killed by fumes or trampled in the stampede to escape.

The blaze started during the second act when a strip of gauze on the curtain brushed against an arc light 12 feet above the floor and caught fire.

The flame spread to the velvet drapery, then leaped into rigging aloft.

Foy made a heroic effort to calm the audience. He dashed from the wing, partly costumed in tights and with his face half made up.

On the stage apron the comic joked with the audience, even caught one of the burning brands, and calmed some who had risen to run for their lives. He ordered the orchestra to play, then ordered an asbestos fire curtain lowered.

The curtain jammed partway down.

The panic was on when a door was opened and sucked the pent up gasses and flames over the audience.

A fire company was only 200 feet down an alley from the theater and a stagehand ran out and shouted, "The Iroquois is on fire!"

By that time, most of it was over. Inside, firemen found 200 bodies piled at the staircase and others stacked 6 to 10 feet deep at emergency exits that were locked and at doors that opened inward.

City Will Stage Tree Roundup

Week-Long Haul To Open Monday

The annual citywide roundup of discarded Christmas trees, expected to yield close to 7,000 bedraggled evergreens, will open next Monday and continue through Saturday, Safety-Service Director Dan Maggiani said today.

Street department trucks will make rounds throughout the city, starting Monday morning, to pick up discarded trees placed at the property line by householders, the director said. The trees probably will be hauled to the city trash dump in St. Clair Township, he added. Most families are expected to take down their trees on New Year's Day or the following weekend.

The tree roundup is a tradition of at least 10 years' standing in East Liverpool. It was started to prevent indiscriminate discarding of the trees, which sometimes were found blocking gutters or sewer drops.

The director warned householders against attempting to burn their trees. The evergreens burn fiercely, creating a fire hazard, he explained.

The street department generally collects about 7,000 of the trees—representing one for each city household. In former years, the trees were burned in a gigantic bonfire — part of a Twelfth Night ceremony at Emmanuel Presbyterian Church — but the practice has been discontinued.

After the passengers reboarded the plane, four armed plainclothesmen entered it, knocked down two of the three stewardesses, threatened to shoot several of the passengers, and took the men off at gunpoint, the airline said.

The Cubans roughed up Brantley and Reid as they left the plane, said one passenger, Daniel Freeman of Oakland, Calif. The plane flew on to New Orleans.

U.S. Asked To Probe

Detention Of 2 Yanks

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Delta Air Lines has asked the State Department to investigate the manhandling and detention of two Americans who were dragged off a Delta plane in Havana Monday.

Delta's New Orleans office identified the two passengers, held by Cuban police, as Louis F. Brantley and James W. Reid.

Their home towns were not available, but Delta said Reid's passport gave his birthplace as Dunmore, Pa.

The airline said it had been told that Brantley and Reid made uncomplimentary remarks about the political situation in Cuba as they waited in the lobby of the Havana Airport. The plane had just come in from Montego Bay, Jamaica, and was bound for New Orleans.

Automobile Insurance Rates To Go Up Wednesday In Ohio

Auto Insurance Hike Will Be 18 1/2% In City

The statewide increase in auto insurance will mean a hike on liability coverage of about 18 1/2 per cent in East Liverpool.

Local motorists pay a lower rate than those in Youngstown, which is second in the state only to Akron.

The last increase in auto rates was in July 1957 when the overall boost statewide was about 20 per cent.

bility insurance and something less than 5 per cent for collision coverage.

The new rates, approved Monday by Arthur I. Vorys, superintendent of the State Insurance Department, go into effect Wednesday. They were filed by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and National Automobile Underwriters Assn. Most firms operating in Ohio use them. Similar rates were filed by Nationwide Insurance, the state's biggest auto insuring company, State Farm Mutual, and other independent firms.

About 95 per cent of Ohio's insured motorists will be affected, Vorys said.

Territories in which rates apply on a geographical basis also were changed somewhat, Vorys said. For the most part, they were extended to suburban areas and higher city rates applied to the entire territory.

In general, the increases will be smallest in rural areas, Vorys reported. As an example, he said the increase was from $34 to $39 for non-business rates in those areas.

In Cleveland, rates rose sharply. Liability rates for cars not used in business rose from $52 a year to $64 on minimum coverage; up from $78 to $97 for cars used in business; up from $161 to $199 for families where a male driver is under 25 years of age.

Council To Revoke Or Amend 6 Old City License Ordinances

A decision to revoke, or amend 6 antedated city license ordinances regulating everything from circuses to barbershops was reached informally by Council Monday night, clearing the way for presentation of legislation to make the changes official early in 1959.

Council decided upon outright repeal of ordinances requiring 50-cent annual licenses for barber and beauty shops. It agreed to cut down from $250 to $10 the annual fee for a license for persons engaged in "billposting, advertising sign-painting, card-tacking and bill distributing."

The advertising regulation was enacted in depression days to discourage cut-rate competition from out-of-town concerns, councilmen said. The barber and beauty shop ordinances were enacted before the two types of business came under state regulation.

Foundering motion picture houses were given a break in a decision to fix a flat annual license fee of $50. The present ordinance requires a $72 fee from theaters seating 300 persons, $120 for those with a capacity of 301 to 500 and $180 for those seating more than 500.

Council decided upon a flat $75-a-day license fee for circuses, a change from the present ordinance which requires a $25 license for "a small circus" and $75 a day for "a large circus" without defining the difference between the two types.

Council also decided each circus and carnival operator will be required to post a $1,000 bond to guarantee the show will not leave town before it pays all its bills and wages owed local residents. The bond also will indemnify individuals or the city for property damage, councilmen said.

At present a $100 bond is required of tent shows, but only as a guarantee against damage to municipal property. The carnival license fee will be left unchanged at $25 a day.

The changes are the outcome of a study of old licensing ordinances that has been under way for nearly a year.

Maryland May Detain Youth In Chester Case

Hancock County sheriff's deputies are waiting word on whether Maryland wishes custody of a 17-year-old youth held in Nebraska for theft of an auto in Chester. Otherwise he will be extradited for Hancock prosecution. Maryland may want him as a reformatory escapee.

The youth, and two girls, 14 and 15, were apprehended in O'Neil, Neb., last week while driving a car owned by James Moore of Alley A, Chester.

Authorities at O'Neil indicated that the youth may be a reformatory escapee and Hancock deputies are awaiting word from Maryland police before dispatching a man to Nebraska to bring the youth to Hancock for the car theft.

Stolen Auto Located; Police Seek Another

One of two autos stolen overnight in East Liverpool was found abandoned this morning, but another still is being sought, police reported.

Salineville's A. & P. Store Will Be Closed

SALINEVILLE — The A. & P. Co. store is scheduled to close late next month, but the manager is considering operating an independent grocery at the same site.

Company officials advised Council the lease for the storeroom in the Village Hall, due to expire Jan. 31, will not be renewed. The firm cited the high costs of supplying the store off its main routes, along with labor expenses that made it a losing operation.

Mrs. Cleda Peloso of E. Main St., manager, has applied for priority on renting the storeroom after Jan. 31 in event she decides to operate her own store in the building.

The A. & P. has been here for many years and has been in the Village Hall for about 12 years. Previously it was in a building now housing the Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

Polaris Test Rocket Blows Up Third Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A sleek Polaris test rocket roared off to a beautiful start today but was blown up minutes later when it drifted off course.

It was the third time in a row that a Polaris was destroyed after launching.

The temperamental two-stage missile blasted straight up at 9:58 a. m.

However, 15 minutes after the spectacular blastoff the Navy announced that the range safety officer destroyed the missile when it deviated from its planned trajectory.

The mission was to shoot the 25-foot test rocket on an 800-mile flight across the Atlantic.

Two predecessors exploded violently on Sept. 25 and Oct. 15. Shattered pieces of the missile splashed into the Atlantic several miles from the cape launching site.

Polaris is the top priority Navy program to develop a 1,700-mile missile for shipboard use. When ready, probably in 1960, it will be capable of being fired from nuclear-powered submarines.

Rebuffed Suitor Fined For 'Molesting' Family

A man who described himself as a rebuffed suitor was fined $10 and costs today in Municipal Court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of "wilfully frightening and disturbing" the occupants of a house at 114 W. 2nd St. "by threatening acts" in and about the dwelling.

William St. Clair of East End told Judge George L. Brokaw he had been keeping company with the 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. Polly Anna Higgins, who filed the charge. He was accused of "frightening" the family Monday night. Judge Brokaw told St. Clair his actions were "reprehensible" and warned him to stay away from the home.

Salineville Dispute Aired

Council 'Stands Pat' On Contract

SALINEVILLE — Village Council Monday night stood firm on its recent purchase of a road maintainer, despite the threat of a possible law suit by an unsuccessful bidder.

Paul McCully of Salineville, whose bid was submitted too late for consideration Dec. 15, asked Council last night to hear his explanation of why Council's award of the contract was "improper."

Mayor Karl Lindner said he has considered the award of the contract to Howard Adams of near Salineville, a Huber Co. representative, as legal and in accord with the policy of the Solicitor Warren Bettis, and "the matter is closed."

THE MAYOR asked individual Council members if they wished to hear McCully's explanation and each replied he considered the issue settled, and that McCully should file a legal action if he wished to reopen the matter.

After the meeting McCully said he "was definitely considering filing a court action," and planned to consult with his attorney. McCully, an agent for the International Harvester and operator of a feed and supply store, submitted a bid over six hours past the noon deadline Dec. 15.

At the beginning of last night's meeting McCully asked Council for permission to present his reasons why the bidding procedure was improper. "I have some facts to present if you'll accept them,"

The mayor said neither he nor the solicitor could find anything wrong in the action Council had already taken. The machine had been delivered by Adams and a down payment authorized. "As far as we are concerned, the matter is closed. If you feel injured in any way, there are legal means of seeking correction."

MCCULLY SAID he has retained Atty. Joseph Cooper of East Liverpool, but Cooper was unable to attend last night's meeting because, as East Liverpool's solicitor, he was at City Council meeting.

McCully has maintained the advertising for the bids was not in the newspaper of general circulation, and that the specifications for the equipment were applicable only to the Huber equipment, and thus eliminated competition in bidding. He said the bids were advertised in the Lisbon Journal, which does not have many subscribers in Salineville, and the bids should have been advertised in the Review.

Mayor Lindner last night said highway authorities he contacted recommended the Huber equipment as a primary machine for road maintenance, while the International Harvester machine was suggested as a supplemental machine with its broom and mower. He said he hoped Council would be able in the future to obtain an International Harvester machine.

AS TO MCCULLY'S request to air his complaints, the mayor said "If Council wants to hear you, all right. If it were left to me, I'd rule you out of order—the matter is finished. I'm sorry that McCully has taken this attitude."

Councilman Don Hirst said he had checked the legal aspects and "had faith in Bettis." Councilman William Hull agreed Council's action should stand. Councilman Earl Davidson said, "The matter is closed." Councilmen Joe Knight and Harold Merriener, who had supported McCully's efforts to seek re-advertising of bids earlier this month, agreed Council should not reopen the matter, as did Councilman Orville Tolson.

Solicitor Bettis explained he had obtained the specifications for the maintainer from the State Highway Department, at Council's request, and the bids called for a general purpose maintainer and were not designed to eliminate any bidders. "If I'm wrong, then the specifications from the state are wrong," he said.

BETTIS ALSO explained the bids had been advertised in the Journal because the Review was apparently uncertain the bids could be published in time for the 30-day notice.

He also said a State Supreme Court ruling interpreted the term of "general circulation" not to mean the number of papers circulated in the city but the public nature of the paper.

In other action, Council approved a resolution adopting the tax budget for 1959 as certified by the County Budget Commission. The budget includes 2.8 mills for the general fund, providing $3,181 inside the 10-mill limitation, and a 2-mill levy providing $2,272 for street lighting, outside the 10-mill limitation.

Council also authorized a temporary appropriation of $24,750 for the first three months of next year.

POLICE CHIEF Mellott reported some $27 each owing to Karl Brown and Stanley Fitch, special officers, was not available in the police department funds due to miscalculation in authorized pay increases for extra help.

Council agreed to authorize the funds in the financial period. It was reported the Board of Trustees of Public Affairs is planning to re-advertise for bids for a utility truck because the original advertisement in the Journal listed Council as the bid recipient instead of the board.

Mayor Lindner reported the Pennsylvania Railroad has tentatively agreed to install a crossing over a spur about two miles west of the main crossing where Council is planning to provide a road to a group of homes, linking them with Route 39.

Wesley in early Methodistism will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday in the First Methodist Church of Newell, instead of regular prayer meeting. The Rev. Ellsworth D. Crispens is pastor. He will be in charge of the New Year's Eve service.

New Year

That is the price in top spots in Miami Beach and Chicago, the plush clubs on Los Angeles' Sunset Strip, and New York's ultra-swank Twenty-one and El Morocco.

Two big, brassy spots in New York, with elaborate floor shows and filet mignon dinners, are billing all-night customers according to where they sit. At both the Copacabana and the Latin Quarter, it will be $15, $20 or $25 per person, depending upon location.

There will be a few bargains. At a Washington night club it will cost only $10 plus tax per person for dinner, one cocktail, soups and noisemakers, the Ink Spots, a chorus line, singers and dancers—and breakfast.

The Waldorf will open its grand ballroom for a public New Year's Eve party for the first time in history. In addition to supper, hats, noisemakers and the music of Les and Larry Elgart, all the ladies will get gifts of French perfume—also for only $10 a head.

Probably the best buy will be the Miami Beach Kennel Club, which opens Wednesday night offering a full-course dinner, music and favors for only $5 a person.

Lisbon's Tax Rates Adopted By Council

Hot Water Heater Ordered For Village Garage At $170 Cost

LISBON—Village tax rates as certified by the County Budget Commission were accepted by Council at a meeting Monday night at the Village Hall.

The rates include 2.4 mills providing $14,536 for the general fund, 1.6 mills for $9,691 to retire bonds and three-tenths of a mill providing $1,817 for the police pension fund.

The tax for the general fund and police pension are inside the 10-mill limitation, while the bond retirement is outside the 10-mill limitation.

In other action, Council authorized the purchase of a 40-gallon hot water tank for the village garage from Herb Heim of Lisbon at a cost of $170, including installation.

Council also granted permission to the Veterans of Foreign Wars to solicit magazine subscriptions in the village with proceeds to go to the post.

Councilman E. G. Heilbronner complained of ice on sidewalks, and suggested police warn residents who have not cleared their sidewalks.

No parking signs were ordered placed at the driveway of Danny Cartwright of W. Chestnut St. to prevent motorists from blocking it.

The Board of Education will be asked to meet with Council at the next meeting Monday night to discuss obtaining a traffic signal at the intersection of Thomas Rd. and W. Lincoln Way. A signal would eliminate the need for employing a school crossing guard.

Pentagon Quiz Due On Reds' 300 Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of two Senate committees said today Pentagon officials will be asked about reports that the Soviet Union will have 300 intercontinental ballistic missiles within 18 months.

A report to that effect, without any verification, was made public at a weekend meeting of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science. It said half the 300 ICBMs would work with a range and accuracy that could destroy the U.S. Strategic Air Command's retaliatory power.

There was no comment from military officials. Roger Hilsman, deputy research director of the Library of Congress' Legislative Reference Service, said he got the report second-hand from a meeting of a minority group of the Council of Foreign Relations in New York early this month.

But members of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees said the estimate calls for an early statement by the Defense Department to the two groups.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (Mont.), assistant Senate Democratic leader, said closed door sessions of the two committees to receive the appraisal "unquestionably will be among the first orders of business" after Congress meets Jan. 7.

Senators John Sparkman (D-Ala.), Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) and John S. Cooper (R-Ky.) all said Congress will need some early comment from the Defense Department on what the known facts are.

St. Clair Men Arrested After 'Brotherly' Fight

"It was just a family quarrel," Dale and Edgar Rice, both of 300 St. Clair Ave., explained to Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw today when they were arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct by fighting.

The judge imposed fines of $10 and costs after the men assured him their differences were settled and they were not angry at each other. Both wore scratches and adhesive tape bandages on their faces.

The brothers were arrested at 2:48 this morning on St. Clair Ave., police said.

Lisbon Child, Druggist Hit

Truck Strikes Boy, Adult Felled By Car

LISBON — A village boy was hospitalized and a druggist knocked down after they were struck by vehicles in separate mishaps Monday police reported.

Vaughn Lipe, 6, son of Mrs. Kathryn Lipe, 136 W. Washington St., is in "fair" condition at Salem City Hospital with injuries suffered when struck at 3:40 p. m. on E. Lincoln Way by a panel truck driven by Dean Rose, 35, of Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville.

Two Cleveland women in a car behind the truck said the boy ran from the curb into the path of the truck at Pritchard Ave.

George Nace of E. Chestnut St. was knocked to the pavement on N. Market St. at the Public Square about 5:30 p. m. as he was walking home.

Nace said the driver, whose name he did not get, got out of the car to see if he had been hurt after the bumper hit his knees, felling him. Nace said he was unhurt.

When he got home, Nace had his wife notify police, giving them the license number of the car, which is apparently owned by a Leetonia man.

Mediators Bid To Gain Peace In 3 Airlines

By The Associated Press

The Federal Mediation Board tries today to settle labor disputes at three major airlines, two of them grounded by strikes and the third threatened with a walkout.

The two strikes—at Eastern Air Lines and American Airlines—kept one third of the nation's airliners on the ground as the New Year's holiday travel rush neared.

In developments Monday: The board assigned a mediator to the strike-threatening dispute between National Air Lines and the Air Line Ticket Agents Assn. over dismissal of a ticket agent in New York last month.

The lengthy deadlock at Eastern tightened when the striking Flight Engineers turned down recommendations of Federal Mediator Warren Lane for ending the walkout.

Officials of the Air Line Pilots Assn. in Chicago studied clarification they requested on a government-proposed settlement of the strike by American Airlines Pilots.

Opposition Continues To Rhee Security Law

SEOUL (AP) — Scattered manifestations of opposition to the Syngman Rhee government's controversial new security law continued in Seoul today. Reinforced police patrols maintained a tight watch on the city.

Some 200 youths gathered near the downtown railroad station in a demonstration against the law approved last week, but armed policemen dispersed them before they could get organized.

The national police announced that anyone organizing demonstrations in opposition to the security law would be severely punished.

Empire Line Calls For Royal Posture

At ease, ladies, while we change a minus into a plus — posture-wise. We have a model for you, one of our readers. An Ohioan made a posture experiment, tested the results, and shared them with us. She writes:

"I am not a fatty. I weigh 140. But here Ida Jean Kain is a bit of news that will interest your readers. You emphasize that flabby muscles bulk out and add inches. I did some experimenting, thus: First, I stood in indifferent posture, shoulders rounded, and in a sway-backed slouch — and measured up."

"Shades of that dreaded middle spread! Then I slipped on my new Empire line dress, and stood in model posture — pulling up-and-in firmly with middle muscles, contracting with hip muscles, head high, chest up, shoulders at ease. Ah, the difference!"

"FOR PROOF, here are the exact measurement changes: Standing, slumped in a lump—Bust 36½; diaphragm 31; waist 28½; abdomen 36; and hips 41½. Standing like a model—Bust 38; diaphragm 30½; waist 27; abdomen 33; and hips 40½. "While my figure is far from ideal, the improvement that standing in good posture makes is such an eye-opener for me, I want to share it. "Perhaps my experience can alert Fattie-Hatties to the slimming effect of correct posture. Also, the Skinny Minnies have much to gain through proud posture—curves where they count!"

It's the line-up that counts. True, you can't always just "will" a perfect posture. But desire to stand beautifully is a prerequisite, and today's eye-opening experiment should inspire you to action.

The greatest transformation comes through the middle of the figure. Restore bracing tone to the important middle muscles and you can hold the slimming up-and-in pull—three inches off!

Here's an easy but effective double-dividend exercise that restores tone to girdle muscles and straightens shoulders:

Position: Lie on back on floor with feet elevated to low bench, arms down at sides, backs of hands on floor.

MOVEMENT: Flex right knee to chest as both arms are circled around on floor overhead. Return foot to bench and swing arms straight down to sides. Continue bending alternate knees and circling arms. Keep arms on floor as you circle, and pull up-and-in strongly with girdle muscles. Repeat a dozen counts.

Cheers for the spirited gal in today's story who pulled out of the slump!

Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for illustrated exercise leaflets entitled, Get A Lift With Posture" and "Away With Middle Spread." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

How Can I ? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent fish odor from permeating the refrigerator?

A. It is claimed that if a little coffee is sprinkled on the raw fish, it will prevent the odor from scenting the refrigerator. The coffee will not discolor the fish, and can be easily wiped off.

Q. What can I do to keep turkeys for a long time?

A. Turnips may be kept in the cellar. But if wanted for spring use, they should be buried deep in the ground, and they will keep nicely until the spring opens.

Q. How can I determine whether the contents of a can are spoiled?
A. If a can has a bulgy appearance, or emits gas when punctured, throw it away. Do not risk eating the contents.

Library To Seek Funds In Estate Of Palestine Man

EAST PALESTINE — Plans have been completed for the construction of a new addition to the War Memorial Library, and the library board will seek court approval of funds allotted the library by the will of the late Robert Forbes Chamberlin.

The library board, at a meeting Monday night, approved plans and specifications for a new stockroom and book repair room in a new addition to the rear of the library on N. Market St.

Atty. J. E. Bauknecht, board president, said the library now has funds to match the $11,772 granted in the will of the pioneer businessman, who died about 10 years ago.

The board will seek approval of Probate Court, which set up the matching system in its interpretation of the will.

Mayor Paul Merwin has re-appointed three members of the board. They are Mrs. P. C. Hawk, member for some 30 years; Mrs. Paul Lange to a third term, and Henry Ashbridge, member for 22 years.

The board will re-organize in January.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: My husband claims he reads your column for "laughs." I hope you will print this and may be he'll laugh himself sick—then do something about the problem.

He's an intellectual. Every evening he reads, studies or works on his stamp collection. His idea of brilliant conversation is, "Pass the sugar."

We have three children and a nice home. He doesn't run around, drink excessively or spend money foolishly. He claims he loves me but shows no affection unless I hit him on top of the head.

I'm no dewey-eyed bride but there must be more to marriage than watching TV in the same room. Please clobber him—DESOLATE DELLA.

Dear Della: If he responds to being hit on top of the head the solution is simple—hit him more often.

First, insist that he go to a doctor for a checkup. If he gets a clean bill of health it's up to you to devise ways and means to take his mind off the picture box and the old stamps. I'm sure if you ponder this question for awhile and use your female ingenuity, you'll think of something.

With You, Dad!

Dear Ann Landers: Our 15-year-old daughter baby-sits for a lovely family across the street. Should she be permitted to have her boy friend visit her on the job? My wife sees nothing wrong with it if the people don't object. I say it's not a good idea for obvious reasons.

Our daughter is furious with me because I put a stop to it. We've had some violent arguments and I asked my daughter if she'd accept your decision. She said yes but made me promise to emphasize that she's a very nice girl.

Please settle this right away. I can't take much more.—ALONE DAD.

You're not alone, Dad. I'm with you.

A 15-year-old should not be permitted to entertain her boy friend when no adult is in the house—this means in her own home as well as in homes where she has been engaged as a babysitter.

Even "very nice girls" get in over their heads when they court temptation time after time. Two young people alone in a house is entirely too cozy. The word from here is no dice.

Love And Marriage

Dear Ann: It always surprises me when I hear married men at work gripe because Suzie's braces cost money or Johnny needs another pair of shoes. They never complain when they make a down payment on a new car or some expensive fishing equipment. I'm a married man who was a bachelor for a good part of my life, so I'm in a position to compare the benefits of both.

I'm much better off financially now that I'm married. The amount I once paid out in rent is now being applied on a home which one day we'll own. My wife feeds the four of us on less than I used to spend in restaurants for just myself. I pay less in taxes. As a married man I'm not expected to help out relatives and friends who need money for emergencies.

Furthermore, when a married man reaches old age there's usually someone around who cares. He's not so apt to lose his identity in a rest home or a charity ward in some hospital. I'm just sorry it took me so long to get smart.—CONFIRMED MARRIED MAN.

Dear Confirmed: Yours is the greatest testimonial for marriage since Patrick Henry almost ruined everything with his "Give me liberty or give me death." Thanks for writing. For every bachelor who will hate you, 10 spinsters will love you.

Confidentially

TO SOFT TOUCH: Of course you did the right thing, but if you had to wait until you were asked you waited too long.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Phone Rate

individual-line residence service is upped 35 cents a month and four-party monthly rate will be $3. The monthly rate for rural residence service will be increased to $3.35. The new business rate in Salineville will be $7.75 for individual lines. The present two-party business line service will no longer be offered.

The company pointed to several provisions of the new tariff which will work to the telephone user's advantage:

1—In East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville, present mileage charges are eliminated for subscribers in outlying areas. In their place two rate zones are established to cover the territory outside the base rate to the limits of the exchange area boundary. This means that subscribers in these outlying districts will pay the same basic rates which apply in the city proper, plus a zone differential.

Some will receive actual reductions in their telephone bills.

2—Rates are reduced for station-to-station long distance calls over 64 miles within the state, and increased for most short-haul calls for person-to-person calls.

3—Charges on most special-type telephone cords are eliminated.

4—The present $3.30 installation charge per telephone is removed and in its place is a flat $4.75 charge on visits to homes, to cover as many telephones as the customer may want installed or moved. Repair and maintenance visits will continue to be made without charge.

The new rates also include a 10-cent increase to 95 cents a month for residence extension telephones, as well as boosts in charges for PBX switchboards, mobile service for vehicles and in other miscellaneous service offerings.

L. T. Pendleton, Ohio Bell vice president, said that the new rates represent a substantial reduction from increases sought in the company's original application and will produce a net of $7,700,000 in additional revenues, after taxes.

The increase, officially okayed Monday, will probably add about $164 million to Ohio Bell's yearly income, the PUC said at Columbus. When it filed application almost a year ago, the company asked for rates which would have brought in more than $28 million more a year.

After a number of hearings and extensive investigation, the commission made the $12-million-cut. Effective Thursday, rates can be increased from 6 to 20 per cent. Over-all increase was set at 8.03 per cent.

Commission approval was unanimous and Chairman Everett H. Krueger, with commissioners Ralph A. Winter and Edward J. Kenealy, signed the order.

After the commission's reduction, major cities served by Ohio Bell agreed to the rate increase in October.

More than half the $164 million increase in revenue will go to the government in taxes, the commission said. There have been reports that further rate increase requests are in the offing, PUC officials added.

Since World War II, Ohio Bell has been allowed four increases. The total amounts to almost 37 per cent—36.94, the PUC said.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Who Steals Needs Help At Home

When you see new objects in the possession of your child of 4, 8 or 14, which you know he hasn't brought or had bought for him, you have reason to be concerned. Yet it's a very delicate matter to deal with. If you question him he may say he found it or that someone gave it to him. Then if you "trap" him and find he has had considerable practice in deceiving you.

By Garry Meyers

Suppose you are sure your child has in his possession an article which he picked up without purchasing from a certain store. Go with the child to return the article, telling the clerk that he took it. Otherwise let the child see you pay for it.

Suppose the clerk had reported that he suspected your child of having shoplifted, while with another child in his store. You should relay this report to your child.

If your child denies that he took the object, don't dispute his word. Say to him that since the clerk is sure he took it, you will go with your child to pay for this article.

As you do so, make it clear to your child in the presence of the clerk that he must never go into this or any other store for a certain stated period unless with an older and responsible person to avoid this sort of mixup.

Meanwhile, try to help this lad to feel more worthwhile as a person and a member of the family.

My bulletin "Honesty and Truthfulness in Children" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

5 More Champions Crowned In College Cage Tourneys

Kentucky Sinks Navy To Post 9th Straight

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Add St. John's (N.Y.), Oklahoma City, Dartmouth, Texas A&M, and Oregon State to the list of Christmas week tournament champions, but keep Kentucky on top in the reckoning for the team to beat in college basketball this season.

Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, who wrapped up their tournament package week ago in the Kentucky Invitational, ran their all-winning streak to nine Monday night with an 82-69 victory over Navy. Johnny Cox ripped in 23 points.

So far the Kentuckians are showing every indication they're able to follow up the championship they nailed in the NCAA Tournament last March, although Cox is the only holdover from the regular unit of a season ago.

Their victory over Navy and Jerry West's 44-point show in 11th-ranked West Virginia's 76-72 decision over Tennessee were the only regular game developments to break through the rash of tournament competition.

No fewer than 16 major tournaments were in action and five crowned their champion.

St. John's, behind a brilliant 33-point show by sophomore Tony Jackson, whipped St. Joseph's (Pa.) 90-79 in the ECAC Holiday Festival at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Oklahoma City was rude host again, bagging its third All-College title at home by turning back Duquesne 75-59 in the final.

Dartmouth, with driving Chuck Kaufmann netting 22 points, won the Queen City Tournament at Buffalo 72-69 over Canisius.

Texas A&M downed Texas Christian 61-45 for the Southwest Conference Tournament title, and Oregon State won the Far West Classic at Corvallis, Ore., topping Iowa 72-71.

Mississippi, a 71-47 winner over Florida, meets LSU in the Gator Bowl windup at Jacksonville tonight. LSU beat Georgia 63-60 Monday night. Defending champion Memphis State and Mississippi State play for the Sugar Bowl championship in New Orleans.

Memphis State nipped Loyola of the South 73-71 and Mississippi State dropped Maryland 56-45.

Detroit and Michigan are finalists at the Motor City Tournament in Detroit. Michigan after a 71-58 victory over Princeton and Detroit after a 98-87 decision over Army.

In the Richmond Invitation final, it's Richmond vs. Penn State. In the Hurricane tourney (the old Orange Bowl) in Miami, it's—appropriately enough—Miami of Ohio vs. Miami of Florida.

Kansas State, a 73-59 winner over Oklahoma, plays Colorado for the Big Eight Tournament title at Kansas City, and Utah State meets Ohio University for the All-American city title at Owensboro, Ky.

Finalists in the Providence College Invitational are Boston College and Colgate.

Four giants of the hardwoods have reached the semifinals in the tournament of tournaments—the power-packed Dixie Classic in Raleigh. It's Cincinnati against North Carolina State, and a pair of unbeatens, North Carolina against Michigan State.

Cincinnati, winning its sixth straight, whipped Wake Forest 94-70 in first-round play. Oscar Robertson scored 29 points.

North Carolina State went into overtime to nip Louisville 67-61, Michigan State battered Duke 81-57 and North Carolina, the defending champ, humbled Yale 92-65.

Unbeaten St. Francis (Pa.) and George Washington, Davidson and Fordham reached the semifinals of the Carrousel tourney at Charlotte, N.C. The Frankies beat Bucknell 73-65 and play Davidson, a 62-55 overtime winner over South Carolina. Fordham defeated Pitt 85-76 and George Washington clipped Clemson 72-53.

Has Sleigh, No Horse
ST. JOHNS, Mich. (AP)—Tom Pouch, an 18-year-old Michigan State University student, has a sleigh but no horse. He has advertised in this town's weekly paper: "Wanted—girl with horse by boy with sleigh."

Kentucky U. Retains Hold On Cage Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Kentucky's Wildcats, for the second straight week, edged out Cincinnati today for first place among the nation's college basketball teams.

Sports writers and broadcasters, voting in The Associated Press' fourth weekly poll, gave Kentucky (8-0) 63 first-place votes and 1,338 points to 56 No. 1 ballots and 1,286 points for the runner-up Bearcats (5-0).

The poll was based on games played through Saturday Dec. 27. Kansas State (7-1), by virtue of their 69-66 victory over Missouri in the first round of the Big Eight Tournament, wrested third place from unbeaten North Carolina by 843 points to 797.

North Carolina State (6-1), although idle last week, moved up a notch into fifth place with 462 points, displacing West Virginia, which fell all the way to 11th place by losing to Northwestern 118-109. The Wildcats (6-1) soared from 12th to sixth. Their 447 points barely topped the 435 total of Michigan State (4-0), which advanced from ninth to seventh place.

Unbeaten Mississippi State (8-0) and Auburn (6-0) each dropped a notch to eighth and ninth, respectively.

Unbeaten Bradley, which defeated Dartmouth and Gonzaga for its sixth and seventh triumphs, jumped from 13th to 10th, replacing Xavier.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Kentucky (63)	1,338
2. Cincinnati (56)	1,286
3. Kansas State (6)	843
4. North Carolina (13)	797
5. N.C. State	462
6. Northwestern	447
7. Michigan State (1)	435
8. Mississippi State (1)	377
9. Auburn (1)	363
10. Bradley	285

The second 10: West Virginia 273; St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 198; St. John's of Brooklyn 186; Tennessee 131; Marquette 78; St. Louis 75; Oklahoma City 66; Purdue 63; Texas Christian 59; California 49.

Toledo Bus Concern To Hike Fares Jan. 16

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Community Traction Co. announced today it will hike bus fares Jan. 16 for the second time in a little more than a month.

Cash fares will go from 21 to 25 cents and tokens from 20 to 22 cents. Cash fares were raised a penny to 21 cents on Dec. 14.

Reach Agreement

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former skating star Donna Atwood, and millionaire showman John Harris, 58, have reached a property agreement and will get a divorce soon. They were married 15 years ago. Harris said Miss Atwood, 33, gets the $300,000 family home in Beverly Hills, $100,000 in furnishings, $2,000 monthly alimony and support for three young children.

SPECTATORS AT THE OPENING GAME of North Carolina State's annual Dixie Classic got more than they bargained for in the contest between Cincinnati and Wake Forest. Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson (12) and Wake Forest's Dave Budd (not shown in the picture) collided and went to the floor fighting. Referee Jim Enright is shown restraining Robertson. (UPI Telephoto)

Manpower No Drawback To Air Academy

DALLAS (AP)—The consensus is that you shouldn't feel too sorry for "little" Air Force Academy in its battle with big Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl Thursday.

Manpower may not have anything to do with it and if it does Air Force seems to have enough to take care of the situation.

Coach Ben Martin is using the two-unit system and plans to continue it in the Cotton Bowl. Even against Iowa, the strongest team played during the season, he was able to substitute by the clock. That was the day Air Force fought the mighty Hawkeyes to a 13-13 tie.

Thus, any idea that Texas Christian, which is a bulky three deep and plays its second and third teams almost as much as the first, will overpower Air Force might not hold water.

Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian wouldn't say he thought reserve strength would be the major point—he merely declared that "I think the second team will have a lot to do with this game."

Martin said he figured TCU should be favored because it was deeper. But he also pointed out that his well-conditioned team didn't need too much substituting.

Pleads Innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor-dancer Dan Dailey, 43, has pleaded innocent to a drunk driving charge and a jury trial is set for Feb. 5. He was arrested Sunday after police said he tussled with them at the scene of a minor traffic accident.

Juvenile Offenders' Names To Be Published

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Starting Jan. 1, names of juvenile traffic offenders—and their parents—will be released for publication, says Juvenile Judge Harold Rose.

It may help reduce juvenile traffic violations, the judge said Monday.

Under state law, drivers younger than 18 who are involved in traffic offenses have been considered juvenile offenders and their records kept separately.

Rose Bowl's Rivals Taper Off In Drills

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Hard work was behind Iowa and California today and whatever the rivals have cooked up for the Rose Bowl battle must remain top secret until New Year's Day.

Coach Pete Elliott of California planned a one-hour session today. The Bears had a rough session of almost two hours Monday.

Forest Evashevski of the Big Ten champions had similar plans for the Hawkeyes. A spirited dummy workout Monday featured the pinpoint passing of All-America quarterback Randy Duncan.

Cal's quarterback star, Joe Kapp, was healthy after a bad cold, and both teams figure to be in excellent shape for the game.

Elliott named his probable starting lineup but cautioned it was subject to revision.

As it stands, Kapp heads a backfield of halfbacks Jack Hart and Hank Olguin and fullback Bill Patton.

Across the line, Elliott named ends Jerry Lundgren and Tom Bates, tackles Pete Newell and Frank Sally, guards Pete Domoto and Don Piestrup and center Terry Jones.

Most observers look for a high scoring game. One expert predicted 30 or more points for each team.

Bob Hope's Home After Entertaining GIs

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Hope is home from an 18,000-mile Christmas tour entertaining some 50,000 U.S. servicemen. It was his eighth Christmas tour.

"The greatest thrill was the gratification of all those kids overseas," Hope said. "They were wonderful."

Glenn Davis, Ohio State track star, holds the world and Olympic records for the 400-meter hurdles.

Writers Want Goal Posts Returned To Goal Line

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Football Writers Assn. of America favors retention of the new two-point conversion rule and return of the goal posts to the goal line in college football.

The members voted against a return to the platoon system. Bert McGrane, veteran grid expert with the Des Moines Register and Tribune and secretary of the Football Writers Assn., today announced the results of a national poll conducted by the organization:

1. Should the 2-point conversion be retained?
Yes—315
No—124
 2. Do you favor return to the one-point conversion?
Yes—127
No—247
 3. Should goal posts be returned to the goal line?
Yes—345
No—102
 4. Do you favor return of the platoon system?
Yes—201
No—242
- The poll was taken at the suggestion of Coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, presumably as a guide to recommendations by the

the Coaches Assn. to the National Rules Committee.

The writers voiced opinions of other phases of the college game. There was a sharp trend against the rule placing the ball on the 20-yard line when a punt or kickoff is downed in the end zone. Recommendations ranged from playing it from the goal line to the 5 or 10-yard line.

There was a plea for uniformity of professional, college and high school rules. Some suggested that the National Rules Committee quit tampering with the game entirely for five years or so.

Some favored complete elimination of points after touchdown. Wilfrid Smith of the Chicago Tribune spoke for several who favored letting a kicking team ground its punt anywhere on the field. Still others recommended letting either team run with a loose or fumbled ball.

Free substitutions were favored and condemned. There was strong sentiment against the present one-arm blocking rule and several suggested that a team trailing on the scoreboard be permitted to receive a kickoff regardless of which team scored last.

Demise Of Gleason Show Unmourned

Jackie Gleason, an introspective fellow, took a hard look at his TV production and wisely determined to call it a day.

After the performance of Jan. 2, the three-month-old "Jackie Gleason Show" will be no more — a victim, you might say, of TV's inherent limitations in the area of weekly comedy. It's unlikely the show will be mourned, least of all by Gleason, who now publicly admits that it was a faulty endeavor and "I've known it since the third week of the show."

The critics, of course, have been aware of the program's shortcomings since its opening but none of the critics got to the heart of the matter as perceptively as Gleason did during a reflective moment recently.

"Anytime quality has a deadline," said Gleason, "it's got to deteriorate. You can strive for quality week in and week out but you won't often get it because it can't be manufactured within a specified time. Quality is a luxury that requires care and unlimited time."

IN THE FUTURE, Gleason's long reach for perfectionism is expected to be noted in four special shows to be scheduled irregularly on CBS during 1959, the first in April.

These he agreed to do for CBS in return for the network's permission to quit his weekly show—and both network and sponsor were willing partners in Gleason's withdrawal plans.

"They were all delighted, and I was relieved," remarked Gleason. "The kind of show I want to do can't be done in a half-hour. It's too little time for comedy-variety, a sheer impossibility. And why fight it anymore?"

"I long ago learned that there are two ways of working your way out of show business—press when you're laying an egg and press when you need more time."

"My crew? They'll all be taken care of. I insisted that each of the people with me, Buddy Hackett and the rest, get paid off for the run of their contracts."

The quartet of special Gleason shows in '59 will be devoted to varied entertainment — a drama, a musical, an original production written by the comedian, and last, a show called "Mardi Gras."

GLEASON SPOKE of these projects with unalloyed enthusiasm and we wondered if he'd had a change of heart concerning his recently-stated hope of joining with Arthur Godfrey next season on a regular basis for a continuation of their humor-filled chats.

"Not at all. I could do both," he rejoined. "One thing is unheeded and offers fun, the other is fully produced and offers professional satisfaction. What a wonderful thing it's going to be to have the time and money to prepare those specials."

Gleason echoes the sentiments of most of today's comedians. The notable development of this current television season, as a matter of fact, has been a crystallization of the working pattern of the Comedian — and specials, rather than weekly offerings, appear to be the thing.

Sid Caesar proved it this season. George Gobel would like to, and Gleason expects to in the New Year.

BOB HOPE's filmed trip to Moscow last March will be repeated on NBC Jan. 25 "by popular demand" and it's one time "bpd" can be believed.

Maria Cilas, Victor Borge, and conductor Sir Thomas Beecham become the first trio of conversationalists on Ed Murrow's "Small World" to rate a two-part broadcast (Jan. 4 and 11).

Murrow and associates consider the conversation of these musical giants so volatile and entertaining — an opus major, as it were — that they decided to hold them over.

"Ellery Queen," NBC's favorite private eye show, has doubled its opening rating (to a 15.8), meaning that shows can build if given the time to catch on. "Queen's" low rating in the beginning almost resulted in a cancellation.

Ben Grauer and his wife (Melanie Kahane, interior and industrial designer) team up for a new program, "Decorating Wave-lengths," to be broadcast as part of the NBC Radio Network's "Nightline" starting Jan. 5.

CBS's highly touted "Nutmegger" on Christmas night, while visually a thing of beauty, was geared to a children's audience — and how many children are permitted to sit by a television set between the hours of 9:30 and 11 p.m.?

Armco Steel Sees Bigger Year In '59

President Predicts Output Over 1958, Under '55-'57 Peak

CINCINNATI (AP)—R. L. Gray, president of the Armco Steel Corp., predicts his firm will produce more steel next year than it did in 1958 but probably won't reach the peaks of 1955, 1956 and 1957.

A statement issued by Gray Monday contained the prediction that the steel industry would turn out about 108 million tons of ingots next year. That would be a 25 percent increase over the 85 million tons of 1958.

"And the momentum of our present comeback could possibly carry the demand for steel next year even higher," Gray said.

Gray asserted, however, that there are some clouds on the steel industry horizon and one is the importation of foreign-made steel.

Gray said that in several sections of the country foreign steel products now are being sold at prices below those American producers can match.

"We cannot make steel as cheaply as foreign countries, of course, because the wages of foreign steel workers are much lower than ours," he said.

The Armco president said more new equipment would enable American firms to increase their output per man-hour but that profits have not been high enough to allow firms to lay aside the necessary money.

"As a result," he added, "the jobs of some of our employees have already been lost to steelworkers overseas."

Importation of foreign steel, he continued, could result in the 80,000 American steelworkers losing their jobs to foreign competition in 1960.

A two-way world trade can be brought about by reducing costs of production, Gray asserted.

The time has come for labor leaders and management to join in working to preserve the jobs of American steelworkers from destruction by foreign competition," he said. "The task will take the combined ingenuity of all of us. We want to export steel—not jobs."

On the bright side, Gray said popularity of new automobiles has aided in steel consumption along with increased sales of household appliances, farm machinery and equipment.

Railroad orders are going up again, he said, along with those for industrial machinery and for road construction.

General Phone Firm Files For Rates Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — General Telephone Co. wants to increase its rates to bring in $263,095 more a month. Application was filed late Monday with the Utilities Commission.

A week ago Friday, the company and the Communications Workers of America announced agreement on a new one-year contract covering 1,500 employees in 70 counties. Among other things, it provides wage increases up to 13 cents an hour, depending on where the employee works and his job.

The company has headquarters in Marion.

The proposed rate increase would affect all exchanges and include local service charges and charges for services like installation or moving equipment.

Woman, 21, Charged In Daughter's Death

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A 21-year-old Oxford woman has been charged with manslaughter in the death of her baby girl whose body was found along a creek bank near Oxford last Nov. 12.

Robert L. Marrs, Butler County prosecutor, said Mrs. Phyllis Ann Smalley had signed a statement admitting she threw the baby from the abutment of a covered bridge. He said she told him the baby was born Oct. 31 and she thought it was dead. Her statement said she threw the body away the next day.

Previously Dr. Garret J. Boone, Butler County coroner, declared the infant apparently died of a fractured skull and that he believed it had been born alive.

More Talks Slated In Glass Worker Strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — Another joint session of negotiators was called for today in the long strike of 13,000 employees at 11 Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plants.

Hayward J. Montoney, federal mediator, said about the only report he could give from Monday's sessions was that "we met again."

The strike by members of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union, started last October. Previous negotiating meetings in other cities have wound up in deadlocks.
